WALKER PLEA FOR QUASHING OF CASE FAILS

Roosevelt Denies Plea of Mayor's Counsel Tersely.

DEFENSE WILL CALL WITNESSES MONDAY

Court Delays Action in Effort to Have Trial Taken From Governor's Hands.

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt in 37 words today denied a motion to dismiss ouster charges against Mayor James J. Walker of New York City after listening to seven hours of argument by John J. Curtin, Walker's chief counsel.

On Monday, the eighth day of the executive hearing, Walker will introduce witnesses, several of them Republican State leaders, including W. Kingsland Macy, the State chairman. Walker contends the Republicans inspired a legislative investigation of Tammany Hall to befog what Democrats have claimed was President Hoover's mishandling of the economic situation and to embarrass Mr. Roosevelt's campaign for the presidential nomination.

The Supreme Court of New York State today became an active participant in the dispute over the mayor's fitness to retain his post when Justice Ellis J. Staley heard arguments on a motion to restrain the governor from acting. The motion had been filed by George Donnelly, a home rule enthusiast.

Mayor Walker's own court move to determine the governor's right to handle the case was continued until Monday by Justice Staley.

Before he returns to the somber "Hall of Governors" on Monday, Mr. Roosevelt will have made the first invasion of Republican territory in his campaign for the Presidency. Tomorrow the Democratic nominee speaks at Columbus, Ohio.

Curtin, one time counsel to Gov. Alfred E. Smith, talked through two days in behalf of his client. Summing up his plea, he exclaimed, "There is no pretense even that these charges have any bearing on the official conduct of the mayor."

The hearing chamber was still as Mr. Roosevelt, bending over the broad topped desk at which he sat, wrote his decision. Walker eyed him for a minute and then glanced through a window at the green carpet of the capitol lawn.

Dismissal Refused.

Leaning back in his chair and adjusting his glasses the governor read:

"These motions are directed to these fifteen charges by Judge Seabury. By these motions I am requested to dismiss these charges. I must decline to do so and at the same time direct that the hearing proceed."

Walker continued to look down Capitol Hill, up which he trudged 22 years ago, a new assemblyman from the Greenwich Village district of his birth.

Samuel Seabury, white-haired foe of Tammany Hall, made only a brief comment upon Curtin's argument. In deep, measured tones, he said:

"There has been much he has said that might be misleading to one ignorant of the case. The salient facts on which each charge was based are almost indisputable."

Seabury is counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee, which scrutinized the Tammany Mayor's activities.

West Virginia Quiz Is Aimed at Conley

Democratic House Votes Inquiry of Republican Executive.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Investigation of the entire State government, aimed particularly at Gov. W. G. Conley, was ordered today by the House of Delegates. Conley is a Republican; the House Democratic.

The resolution calling for the inquiry was sponsored by Delegate Ross, who earlier in the session threatened to start impeachment proceedings against the governor.

Urging adoption of the proposal to give a committee authority to delve into any division of the State government, Ross said the governor should be held responsible for all departmental activities, and added "if we can get rid of him, we will probably have some prosperity in West Virginia." The resolution was adopted, 42 to 34.

2 MEN ROB WOMAN OF $2,900 PAY ROLL

Congressional Country Club Is Scene of Daring Holdup by Unmasked Pair.

Montgomery County and Washington police are searching for the two men who yesterday overpowered Miss Fannie Lytle, executive secretary of the Congressional Country Club, and made away with her car and the club pay roll of $2,900.

Miss Lytle had gone to the bank to obtain the money for the pay roll and had returned to the club. She drew up in front of the door to the garage assigned to her and climbed out of the car to open the door, leaving her engine running. As she alighted two men came from the shadows.

One man grabbed her while the other climbed into the car and started to move slowly away. Miss Lytle screamed and several caddies nearby started toward the garage. The man released her and ran to the slowly moving car and climbed in. The pair then speeded away in the direction of Washington.

A good description of the men was given to Montgomery County police by Miss Lytle and several caddies who saw the men. The money was contained in a small black bag.

The club, rendezvous for many of Washington's elite, is situated at River road and Bradley boulevard, about 12 miles from Washington.

T. B. Horner, manager of the club, said that the robbery was planned by some one familiar with the layout of the club and the pay day procedure. Miss Lytle was in a highly nervous condition yesterday and required treatment by a physician.

Colvin Says Borah Considering Race

"More Than Possibility" He Will Lead Third Party, Is View.

Seattle, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—D. Leigh Colvin, of New York City, chairman of the executive committee of the Prohibition party, declared here today that Senator Borah, of Idaho, is still considering an invitation to run for President on a new political party ticket.

"There is more than a possibility he will accept, I think," Colvin said, "although his health may be the factor to prevent his running." Colvin conferred with Senator Borah last week at Boise, Idaho.

"Most of the Nation's drys feel both Hoover and Roosevelt are impossible," Colvin said. "Hoover's lack of grasp of the social problems of the country is pitiable. He has surrendered on prohibition merely for the sake of carrying Eastern wet States." He said Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied prohibition forces who recently announced support of the President, "was fooled" by President Hoover's acceptance speech.

BRITISH FLIER RESTS AFTER ATLANTIC HOP

Phones Bride From St. John; To Wait for Her Before Return Flight.

St. John, New Brunswick, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Capt. J. A. Mollison, a sturdy, curly haired Scotchman, completed the first Westward solo crossing of the North Atlantic today and, "Jolly well all in," came to St. John to get a night's sleep.

He brought his "Flying Gasoline Can" down at Pennfield Ridge, 40 miles from here, at 11:45 a. m. Eastern standard time. He had taken 30 hours and 20 minutes to fly from Portmarnock, Irish Free State, and there were only ten gallons of gas left in his tiny sports model plane.

"It was the toughest flight I ever made," he said, "and I am jolly well all in."

Phones to Bride.

By transatlantic telephone he talked to his bride of three weeks, Amy Johnson, herself a notable distance flier, and she told him she was sailing tomorrow to meet him in New York. He will wait for her there and then will take off—without his wife—to fly back home and complete the first round-trip air crossing of the ocean.

"I was lucky," Mollison said. "For hours at a stretch last night I couldn't see the water below me and I didn't know whether or not the wind was switching and causing me to drift off my course.

"I allowed 7 degrees for drifting and my calculations must have been just about right, because when I came over land this morning it wasn't ten minutes before I sighted Harbor Grace."

It was fatigue and lack of gasoline that decided Mollison to come to earth in James Armstrong's pasture in the village of Pennfield Ridge.

Describes Strain.

"You are under a terrible strain in a flight of this kind," he said. "You're under not only a physical strain but a mental strain as well."

He revealed that he had made the flight at this time only because arrangements for it had been made for six months.

"I just got married three weeks ago," he pointed out. "If this hadn't been planned so long I would have waited a while.

"I would have tried to go on to New York, although I was terribly tired, if I had had enough gas to get me there. Ten more gallons would have been sufficient, and I think I would have been able to make my destination today."

Asked if the rain and fog would not have interferred with any such attempt, the airman said:

"I flew through fog and rain last night. I don't think a little more of it would hurt me."

His 120-horsepower plane carried

Brutality Laid to Two U.S. Dry Agents in Iowa

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—On the complaint of eight persons, who have signed affidavits alleging brutality, and nine others who said they were willing to testify, a request was sent to the Federal prohibition headquarters in Washington for the removal from office of Forrest Burris and John Wyman, Federal prohibition investigators, who have been working in Sioux City.

Glassford Asks Bonus Opposition by Legion

Pennsylvania Group Is Urged to Fight All Special Benefits.

(Associated Press.)

An appeal to the American Legion to oppose cash bonus legislation and other "special benefits to veterans" was made yesterday by Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, who was in the thick of the bonus army riots here.

Glassford, a retired brigadier general, who was criticized in some quarters for too kindly treatment of the bonus marchers and who held the situation never got out of police control, made his plea in a telegram to George J. Froesl, Pennsylvania State legion commander, declining an invitation to address the State convention tomorrow.

"Appreciate greatly invitation to address Pennsylvania convention American Legion tomorrow," Gen. Glassford said, "and regret impossibility attending. Urgently appeal your convention oppose cash payment adjusted service certificates or any other measures which include special benefit to veterans with health and jobs or which discriminates in these hard times to favor jobless veterans over other unemployed.

MILLS SEES CHAOS AMONG DEMOCRATS

Says Republicans in Accord on National Policies and Lauds President.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A contrasting picture of confusion and chaos within the Democratic party and order and purpose in the Republican ranks was drawn here today by Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury.

Mills, speaker at a luncheon gathering, assailed Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's utterances on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and predicted the Democrats would "split wide open" if the party attempted to carry out its platform pledge on prohibition.

The Secretary praised President Hoover's political philosophy and purposes against what he described as the Democratic confusion on national policies.

Earlier in the day, in an address at the commencement exercises of the Bryant-Stratton College of Business Administration here, Mills characterized the Reconstruction Corporation as "one of the most powerful and well-conceived instrumentalities ever devised to meet the greatest financial crisis that ever confronted this Nation."

"The picture today is one of order against confusion," he said, in his luncheon address. "President Hoover has set out with clarity and definiteness the record, policies and political philosophy of himself and of his party. As we examine the history of Pinchot Sends New Aid Plea to R. F. C.

$12,000,000 Is Voted by State to Support Federal Loan.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Gov. Pinchot today rushed to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation a $12,000,000 reason why Federal aid should be advanced to Pennsylvania to further the relief of the State's 1,150,000 unemployed.

To Atlee Pomerene, F. F. C. chairman who bluntly told the governor when he appeared for a $45,000,000 loan, that his State did not deserve Federal assistance because it had not helped itself, Pinchot sent copies of the State aid legislation enacted by the general assembly in the closing minutes of the special session and signed by him within a few hours today.

The new acts provide for distribution through a new State emergency relief board of $12,000,000 financed by a general 1 per cent sales tax. The first allocation of the State money will be made to local private and public relief agencies soon after September 1, the effective date of the six months emergency sales levy.

Middleton Quits Post As Newfoundland Head

London, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Sir John Middleton resigned today as governor of Newfoundland. King George accepted the resignation.

Sir John aroused the resentment of some Newfoundlanders last year when he asked Britain to rush a cruiser to St. John's during political disorders there. The resignation was described as due to private reasons.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK IN COLUMBUS TODAY

Bulkley, Sounding Keynote at State Convention, Attacks Hoover.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—To the noisy acclaim of fellow Democrats, United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley sounded the keynote of the State platform convention here tonight with a denunciation of President Hoover's policies, and a charge that the Republican attitude toward prohibition was designed to win the votes of both wets and drys.

The convention is to be climaxed tomorrow by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's first presidential campaign speech away from home.

After praising the administration of Gov. George White, who followed him on the speaker's stand, Senator Bulkley as temporary chairman was interrupted repeatedly by applause as he trained his guns on the Republican national platform and declared that President Hoover was "inconsistent" in reversing his position on the eighteenth amendment. Senator Bulkley is an advocate of straight-out repeal.

The President's declaration for a change in prohibition laws, Bulkley said, is a partisan Republican attempt to face both ways on the issue. He termed the Republican platform "an historical apology concerning great things not accomplished."

Boos greeted his mention of the names of Maurice Maschke, Cleveland Republican leader and former Republican national committeeman, and Family of 6 Burn To Death in Crash

Woman's Brother Seventh Victim in Tragedy at Midland, Mich.

Midland, Mich., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Fire breaking out with explosive suddenness after an automobile collision today brought death to seven persons, including an entire family of six, mother, father and four children.

The dead are: George Messer, 44, Thompsonville, Mich.; Mrs. Messer, 41; their children, Edward, 12; Forest, 10; Stella, 6; Mary, 4, and Harry Crane, Birmingham, Mich., brother-in-law of Messer.

Two 5-gallon tanks of gasoline carried on the running board of the Messer car turned a comparatively minor traffic accident into a tragedy. Messer collided with the automobile of George A. Patrick of London, Ontario. The collision broke the gasoline cans and the fuel was sprayed over the Messer car. It burst into flames immediately and three of the children—Edward, Stella and Mary—were dead before the fire was extinguished.

Rally to Hear Hurley In Providence Aug. 24

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hurley yesterday accepted an invitation to speak at Providence, R. I., on August 24 at a Republican rally.

The speech, coming four days after the address Gov. Roosevelt will deliver at the Ohio State Democratic convention in Columbus tomorrow, is expected to be the administration's reply to the statements of the Democratic presidential candidate.

WORLD ACTION TO CURB GOLD FLIGHTS SEEN

Huge Credit Withdrawals Topic for Economic Conference.

CRISES WEATHERED BY MANY NATIONS

Hoover Sees Outlook Hopeful as Trend Is Reported Checked in U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Administration leaders are considering the availability of the approaching world economic congress as a source for international steps to curb huge flights of credit such as those of the last two years.

As explained yesterday in high quarters, not only the United States but England, Germany and other European countries passed through credit withdrawal crises during that period. President Hoover has placed the aggregate withdrawn from this country at more than $2,400,000,000, a billion of it in gold.

Mr. Hoover was said to be now advised of a turn in the movement. The total of foreign credits in this country, he has been informed, is down to $500,000,000, a sum considered by some insufficient for normal needs of external business. Latest reports indicate part of those withdrawn are being returned.

Sees Outlook as Hopeful.

Mr. Hoover was described in this authoritative quarter as basing upon this circumstance, as well as upon more favorable economic reports from elsewhere, a more optimistic feeling as to the immediate business outlook at home than at any time within many months.

While the President is known to have given thought to invoking the aid of the World Economic Conference to solve the problem of great credit withdrawals, no hint of the form that aid might take was forthcoming. The importance of the subject in Mr. Hoover's eyes was emphasized, however, by one administration leader, who declined to be quoted directly.

It was largely because of foreign credit withdrawals, this administration spokesman said, that many American business men were fearful from February last up to less than a month ago that the United States might be forced off the gold standard. That fear, it was added, had impeded recovery in lines not directly connected with the foreign credits situation, accentuating the situation.

Less Pressure on R. F. C.

Another circumstance tending to impress the President with a more favorable business outlook is lessening of some part of the pressure on the Reconstruction Corporation.

Mr. Hoover is said to have been gratified by reports he has received in that regard, but no definite state-

Austrian Council Rejects Lausanne Loan Treaty

Vienna, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—By a vote of 27 to 22 the federal council today rejected the Lausanne loan protocol, by the terms of which Austria would have borrowed $42,000,000 under the auspices of the League of Nations. The protocol now will be returned to the Paliament for a second vote.

Yesterday Parliament approved the protocol by a margin of one vote. The conditions under which the loan would be granted, including a pledge by Austria to renounce for twenty years any effort toward a customs union with Germany, brought from the opposition the charge that the government was selling out the country's liberty and independence.

SOVIET TRADE CURB REFUSED BY BRITAIN

Faith Is Sole Guarantee Put to Dominions on Future Legislative Policy.

Ottawa, Ontario, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Their own faith that the British government will legislate to prevent any competing country from selling in the United Kingdom below world price levels constitutes the only guarantee the dominions are to get at the imperial economic conference against "state controlled competition"—which is the polite term used here for Russian dumping.

It was revealed today that the British, who have been asked by the dominions to take steps to bar cheap Russian goods, have decided not to place any quota on imports from the Soviet.

The situation has narrowed down to a matter of Canada and the other dominions agreeing to allow increased advantages to British industrial products in the faith that the United Kingdom will protect their products against underselling in British markets.

This analysis was declared to be a definition of all that has been accomplished in the four weeks of intensive argument at the conference, the final plenary session of which will be held tomorrow morning. But this accomplishment was described as the greatest victory for empire trade cohesion in a half century of effort.

An agreement reached today, under which Canadian duties against dumping will be reduced to a minimum, forecast keener competition for Unit-

Japanese Leader Off to Manchuria

Gen. Muto Takes Draft of Treaty for Approval by Pu-Yi.

Tokyo, Saturday, Aug. 20 (A.P.).—Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto left Tokyo today for Manchuria to take over the posts of supreme military commander, ambassador on special mission and governor general of the Kwantung leased territory.

With him he took a draft of the treaty Japan intends to conclude with the new state of Manchukuo. The pact will serve as the basic charter of the unique relations between the Japanese empire and the government which was set up at Changchun after Japan had expelled the Chinese from Manchuria, and had established Henry Pu-Yi, former boy emporer of China, as chief executive.

After Gen Muto negotiates the treaty, which the Pu-Yi regime is expected to accept without difficulty, Tokyo probably will formally recognize Manchukuo. This may happen late in September.

BALL IS FOUND NOT GUILTY OF FUNDS MISUSE

Arlington Jury Clears Former Treasurer in Less Than 5 Hours.

VERDICT APPLAUDED BY CROWD IN COURT

Trial on Second Indictment Likely to Be Held in October.

E. Wade Ball, former Arlington County treasurer, was acquitted of an indictment charging misuse of public funds last night. At 10:30 o'clock, the jury which heard his case in Arlington Circuit Court returned a verdict of not guilty.

A burst of applause came from the spectators who crowded the courtroom when Joseph C. McClellan, foreman of the jury, told Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the jury's decision.

Although cleared on this indictment, Ball, who was treasurer of the county for 24 years, faces another charging misappropriation of county funds, which will probably come to trial in the October term of the court. He is on bond of $5,000 on this charge.

Shakes Hands With Jurors.

As the verdict was announced, Ball after receiving the congratulations of his counsel, Crandal Mackey and Frank L. Ball, shook hands with each member of the jury.

In a brief statement he expressed to Judge McCarthy his "heartfelt thanks" for "fair and courteous treatment" during the trial. He also said that he wished to express to his friends his appreciation for their loyalty.

The jury before which the case was tried was composed of McClelan, Deeth Pickett, T. C. Carroll, Charles Tarbutton, A. W. Adams, John P. Mann, M. J. Dunnigan, Guy S. Zepp, Livingston Smith, Louis Shreve, B. F. Creel and David R. Collins.

Verdict After Five Hours.

The jury received the case at 5:40 o'clock last night. Shortly afterward, the jurors were taken to dinner by Sheriff Howard B. Fields and a deputy. They returned to the juryroom at 7 o'clock, reaching their verdict three and a half hours later.

The specific indictment on which Ball was tried charged him with misuse of $24,434 of funds collected last January. The money was due the State and was not paid, it was claimed.

Prosecution was led by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas, who contended that Ball should be convicted because he "knowingly disposed of the money." The plea of the defense was that the State had not proved any intent to defraud, or that Ball used any of the money personally.

Closing arguments for the prosecution were opened by Collins Denny, jr., assistant attorney general of Virginia. He charged that Ball built up fictitious bank balances at the close of 1930 and 1931 by issuing checks to cover shortages.

"We are not asking for a conviction on the ground that he withheld the money with intent to defraud," he declared. "We ask conviction on the ground that he knowingly disposed of the money."

Appeal to Jury.

In his appeal to the jury, Crandal Mackey asked that it not send Ball to the penitentiary to be "a companion to felons and suffer the tragedy of confinement." Speaking of the State's case, he said, "They have not traced to his hand one penny of State money."

"The law does not permit you to convict a man for not sending money

Churches in Lottery Probe; Davis to Plead Not Guilty

Senator to Go to New York for Arraignment in Indictment.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, sent word here from Washington today that he would plead not guilty to lottery charges for which he and six others were indicted yesterday by a Federal grand jury.

He notified Louis M. Treadwell, Assistant United States Attorney, that he would appear for arraignment August 30. He plans to spend next week at a convention of the Loyal Order of Moose, under whose auspices a lottery is alleged to have been run.

Three other defendants gave notice they would appear next Wednesday. They are Bernard C. McGuire and Raymond Walsh, of New York, mem-

The Federal Government's far flung campaign against lotteries has been widened to include an investigation into church circles, the United Press learned last night.

Virtually every detective agency of the Government has been thrown into the battle against the lotteries, which already has resulted in the indictment of Senator James J. Davis (Republican), Pennsylvania, and others in a New York court.

Federal and State officials are obtaining evidence concerning 172 lotteries conducted in the last six months by churches in Illinois. One Chicago church, the United Press was

'Endurancers' Set New Mark As Plane Rides Into Morning

"Flying Boudoir" Pilots Unofficially Break Women's Record; Pass 131 Hours Aloft; Scores Ascend to View Two Grimy But Happy Matrons.

Curtiss Field, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A couple of grimy, but grinning young matrons smashed the women's endurance flying record today and kept right on flying to make sure that they'll hold the new one for a while.

Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden bettered the old mark of 123 hours by the 60 minutes required for a new one at 5 p. m. (Eastern Standard time) and at midnight they had been up in their "flying boudoir" continuously for 131 hours with no sign that they might come down soon.

As the hour struck at 5 p. m. when they set the new record crowds craned necks and cheered. The plane dropped down from its high cruising altitude, and one of the fliers leaned out of the cabin window, waving in return.

Then the plane mounted and shrank into distance again, a blue and yellow streak in the late afternoon sunlight.

The pair will "keep right on flying," Charles S. (Casey) Jones, manager of the airport, said.

But he added they "had no such ambition" as to better the men's record of almost 27 days aloft made two years ago by Forrest O'Brine and the late Dale Jackson. The women's record was made by Miss Evelyn (Bobby)

PINCHOT APPROVES UTILITY QUIZ FUND

His Counsel Choice for Public Service Body Probe Is Rejected by Senate.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today let the Republican organization-controlled Senate have the $100,000 it voted for its investigation of the Public Service Commission.

He signed the bill to finance the inquiry and followed it up with a demand that all members of the investigating committee reveal any relations with utilities.

The inquiry will start in September in the face of reiterated declarations by Pinchot that the investigation is intended to "whitewash utilities." Senator William S. Rial, chairman of the committee, answered what he called Pinchot's "childish petulance" by declaring "the clamor he is making is not over fear of what he calls a whitewash but that some one is going to be tarred."

Counsel Choice Rejected.

Pinchot has demanded as counsel for the committee, Attorney General William A. Schnader, self-revealed organizer of the Yellow Cab Co., of Philadelphia, and its attorney until he became the State's chief legal officer.

The Senate flatly rejected Schnader and made it known that it intends to use counsel of its own choosing. Likely appointees mentioned are George Wharton Pepper, Philadelphia, former United States senator; George E. Alter, Pittsburgh, former attorney general and Pinchot's opponent for the governorship nomination in 1923; Robert Von Moschzisker, Philadelphia, former chief justice of the supreme court, and Charles J. Margiotti, Pittsburgh.

The inquiry was one of the results of the special session of the Legislature, called eight weeks ago to provide unemployment relief, and which adjourned sine die early today.

Although Gov. Pinchot, persistent foe of the organization and commission alike for ten years, steadily demanded the investigation all through the session, he was quick to disown it when the organization passed its own order and killed his resolution.

Pinchot's approval of the appropriation relieved considerable tension in organization circles, where it was conceded that if he denied the money, the Senate would have to rely upon the Senate contingent fund and outside sources, limiting its scope.

Acceptance Talk Error Charged by Labor Group

(Associated Press.)

The Weekly News Service of the American Federation of Labor said yesterday President Hoover had erred in stating in his acceptance speech that he had obtained an agreement from business and labor leaders in 1929 to "uphold wages until the cost of living was adjusted."

"There is nothing in this 1929 agreement," said the federation organ, "indicating that the maintenance of wages was to be predicated on the cost of living. * * * Had it contained such a qualification it is absolutely sure that organized labor would have not agreed to refrain from initiating wage increase movements."

MILLS SEES CHAOS AMONG DEMOCRATS

the Republican administration and the pledges given to the future we have a sense of unity and of consistency.

"Promises are not contradicted by past performances. Whether we are satisfied or not, no room is left for doubt as to what policies may be expected from a Republican administration under the leadership of President Hoover and what underlying principles will govern those policies.

"There is hardly a sentence in the Democratic platform that is not nullified by the actions of the House of Representatives. There is hardly a word of Mr. Roosevelt's that does not challenge a policy supported by Speaker Garner. Let me illustrate what I mean.

Tariff Confusion.

"The Democratic platform condemns a protective and declares in favor of a competitive tariff. Mr. Roosevelt, while indorsing this principle, confuses it by adding that he is for protection of American labor and industry.

"But the fact is that the Democratic House initiated and passed, and the Democratic senators forthwith supported the high protective tariff measure enacted at the last session of Congress under the guise of a revenue act.

"Two of the senators presided over the Democratic convention, one as temporary and one as permanent chairman. It was the latter who notified him of his nomination and eulogized a platform containing a plank which he had made it ridiculous for him to accept.

"Gov. Roosevelt went out of his way to attack the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which I believe to be the most effective economic relief agency ever devised. Yet the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was created with the support of the Democrats in both Houses and has been administered on a strictly nonpartisan basis by a nonpartisan board.

Prohibition Question.

"Since Gov. Roosevelt has never withdrawn his criticism are we to understand that he disapproves of the actions of the Democratic members of the House and Senate and of the activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation?

"Even on the prohibition question, as to which they would have us believe there is some degree of unity within their ranks, the fact is that the unqualified repeal plank is so completely at variance with the views of the dominating element in the party, the Southern Democracy, that every thoughtful person must recognize that the Democratic party will split wide open on this issue should it ever attempt to carry out the pledge.

"Whether you agree with the Republican policies or not, it is impossible to deny that the Republican candidate and the Republican party have a concrete and orderly program, a definite sense of direction. They know where they are going. On the other hand, no unbiased man can pretend that the Democratic candidate, the Democratic party or the Democratic platform has such a program or such a sense.

"On the one side there is order, on the other confusion. That, to me, is the essence of the campaign reduced to the simplest terms."

9 Are Locked in Vault In $6,000 Bank Holdup

Olla, La., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Forcing four employes and five customers into a vault, two unmasked bandits, one of them believed to be Jim Yarrell, escaped convict, today took approximately $6,000 from the Olla State Bank and fled in an automobile, pursued by a posse.

After a few minutes one of the bank employes succeeded in working the combination from the inside and the vault door was opened, releasing the prisoners. Yarrell escaped from Angola Prison Farm April 18 while serving a term for bank robbery.

Dinwiddie Lauds Views as Tydings Terms Them "Straddling."

(Associated Press.)

Praise and criticism yesterday greeted Vice President Curtis' declaration against repeal of the eighteenth amendment and for rigid enforcement of prohibition.

While Mr. Curtis at Topeka was expressing pleasure over telegrams from 25 States congratulating him upon his acceptance speech, Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, in a statement issued from the Democratic national committee, said the President and his running mate were "riding the same horse, but in two directions."

"The Republican party," said the Marylander, an antiprohibitionist, "has seldom given a clearer example of its ancient strategy of 'working both sides of the street' than in the contrast between President Hoover's and Vice President Curtis' utterances on the prohibition question."

Comment of Curtis.

Mr. Curtis, before leaving Kansas for Washington, said the telegrams he received singled out no particular section of his address for comment.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, secretary of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, who personally has favored President Hoover's reelection because of what he termed the President's "Constructive" effort regarding prohibition, said Mr. Curtis' position was "very gratifying and greatly appreciated."

"It was just such a declaration as those who knew Mr. Curtis' lifelong attitude expected," the prohibition leader said.

The same view was expected privately by other dry organization leaders.

Senator Ashurst (Democrat), Arizona, said: "This is an era in which all politicians seem to stand steadfastly for a policy of vacillation."

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, commented that the Vice President's speech was evidence that the Republicans "are trying to carry water on both shoulders, using Curtis to try to win the dry West and Hoover to get the wet East."

Senator Tydings, in his statement, added:

"President Hoover in his speech of acceptance tried to be wet with enough obscurity in language to give some comfort to the drys. But some of the drys protested s Vice President Curtis provides the anchor to hold the extreme drys while Mr. Hoover hopes to snare the moist wets.

"If the Republican party hopes in this way to make everybody happy I predict that it will be sadly mistaken in November."

Jibes for Radio Limitation.

New York, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Failure to broadcast the speech of Vice President Charles Curtis, accepting the vice presidential nomination last night, over New York and Chicago stations of a national network brought jibes from the Democrats and explanations from the Republicans today.

To the charges by James H. Farley, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaign manager, that the Republicans ignored New York and Chicago because of Curtis' "dry" sentiments, Paul Gascoigne, Republican radio chief, declared that it must have been an inadvertence. Gascoigne later explained that it was the committee's intention to get "as much spread for their money" as possible.

Democratic leaders countered with charges that the Republicans had sought to confine the broadcast, over the Columbia network, to the Nation's drier areas, and that "they did not want Republican wets to hear that Curtis was in opposition to President Hoover."

Vincent Astor Will Aid Democratic Fund Drive

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Vincent Astor, present head of the wealthy and socially-prominent Astor family, will take an active part in raising money for the Roosevelt-Garner campaign, it was announced today at Democratic national headquarters.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS IN COLUMBUS TODAY

United States Senator Simeon D. Fess in connection with their praise of President Hoover's acceptance speech.

Gov. White pledged himself to continued economy in government and alleviation of suffering among the State's needy. He declared that his administration had cut the cost of government in Ohio by $10,000,000 within the past year.

Confident the party would sweep the country in November, workers and delegates predicted freely their candidates would also win the State offices now held by Republicans. Gov. George White at present is the only Democratic State officeholder.

The work of building their State platform and disposing of routine business was spurred by the knowledge their presidential nominee tomorrow will fire before them the opening shot in his campaign. Gov. Roosevelt's address, the keynote speech of his race for the White House, is expected to answer parts of President Hoover's acceptance speech and broach new subjects he feels should be put before the voters. The governor, leaving Albany tonight, was promised a bright, clear day in which to deliver his address at 4 p. m.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt left for Columbus, Ohio, at 10:45 o'clock (Eastern standard time), tonight.

TRIMBLE STILL FIRM IN R. F. C. PUBLICITY

Will Expose Loan Details on Monday, Despite Much Criticism.

(Associated Press.)

In the face of expressed doubt as to its propriety, even from some members of his own party, South Trimble, House clerk, yesterday showed no sign of weakening in his announced intention to make public on Monday the details on reconstruction loans for the last ten days of July.

Although there had been some whispers of possible court action to prevent publication, it was learned in a high official quarter yesterday that President Hoover will not interfere.

Mr. Hoover feels, this same authority said, that it would be desirable to publish the corporation's records were it not for the possible damage to borrowing banks and corporations through fear on the part of their clients.

However, the President was represented as feeling it could not be determined whether such damage would occur until after the loans were published. Should some harm come about, the official said, the administration will point out that the records were opened to public inspection over the President's protest.

Trimble ruled Thursday that in adopting an amendment to the relief act calling on the Reconstruction Corporation to make monthly reports on its activities, Congress intended that this information should be available to the public.

Saratoga Accident Probe Set Today

Huge Navy Plane Carrier Will Be Dry-Docked for Inspection.

San Pedro, Calif., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Naval authorities announced tonight the $35,000,000 plane carrier U. S. S. Saratoga, grounded four hours on a sandbar off Sunset Beach yesterday, would be drydocked at Hunter's Point, San Francisco, in the near future for a close inspection.

Visible damage, divers reported, consisted of clogged steam turbine condensers which were partly filled with mud and sand while the craft churned about in the shallow water in an effort to free itself. Naval tugs pulled the Saratoga to sea at high tide.

Naval officers, appointed by Rear Admiral H. E. Yarnell, of San Diego, will sit tomorrow as a board of inquiry. The hearing will be secret and the findings will be sent to Washington. The Saratoga was in charge of Capt. George W. Steele. The great craft, which carries 80 airplanes and 1,700 men and officers, steamed out to sea today for gunnery practice.

Tilson Hits Garner Public Works Plan

Excuse That It Was Drawn Overnight Insufficient, He Declares.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, in a statement issued through the Republican national committee, yesterday assailed Speaker Garner anew for public works section of the relief bill he introduced in the closing weeks of Congress.

Asserting that the Speaker "excuses his pork barrel postoffice measure which would have cost the taxpayers a billion dollars by saying that it was drawn overnight," Tilson said:

"That isn't any excuse. It may have been drawn overnight, but there certainly was ample time for the Speaker to have changed it completely before he forced his party colleagues to approve it in a party caucus. It was this action that forced through the House of Representatives the most gigantic pork barrel measure in all the history of the country."

ed States goods in the Canadian markets.

The dominion minister of internal revenue has had power to assess an additional dumping duty against imports from any country whose rate of exchange was below that of Canada. The purpose of this was to protect Canadian manufacturers, and it operated against Great Britain, which lost the advantage of its depreciated currency.

Under today's agreement, Canada will not eliminate the dumping duty but will cut it materially. This will mean cheaper British goods for the Canadian consumer and therefore more intense competition confronting United States manufacturers.

The conference entered its final phase with a flurry of treaty singing. Great Britain has initialed agreements with India, South Africa, southern Rhodesia and Newfoundland, and Anglo-Australian and Anglo-New Zealand pacts were imminent. The agreement between Canada and Great Britain was held up only for the drafting of a few clauses.

All these agreements provide for extension of mutual preferences, some of them by tariffs and others by quota restrictions on nonempire products. The individual tariff changes will be held secret until the pacts are submitted for partiamentary approval.

Hoovers' Condolences Sent Polish President

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover sent the following message yesterday to President Ignace Moscicki of Poland.

"Mrs. Hoover and I are sorely grieved to learn of the death of Mme. Moscicki and extend to your excellency our sincere condolences in this great bereavement which has come to you."

Onions Help Buy Nuptial License.

Seminole, Okla., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Love will find a way, even with onions and green peppers. County Clerk Kenneth C. Higdon today gave J. M. Harris, 22, and Leona Ballad, 19, a marriage license for $1.75—all the cash they had—a bushel of onions and 10 pounds of green peppers. The young couple departed happily for Harris' rented farm.

10,000 STRIKERS END PICKETING OF TOWN

Illinois Troops and Vigilantes on Guard as Men Quit Taylorville.

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The occupation of Taylorville by 10,000 striking miners ended tonight after a decision of their policy committee ordering the men to return to their homes.

The evacuation began immediately after Armand D. Rossi, of Gillespie, chief of the committee, broke the news to the miners and declared no offensive would be started on southern Illinois fields operating under the $5 daily wage scale at this time.

Leaders of the miners expected that the withdrawal of the men, whose coming had stopped all mining operations in Christian County, would be completed within five or six hours.

103 Face Riot Charges.

At about the same time the evacuation got under way officials of the Peabody Coal Co., large operators here, swore out warrants for 103 members of the miners' group, charging them with inciting to riot. The warrants resulted from alleged disorders last night in which Peabody company property was destroyed.

Rossi told the men that a march on the southern fields would be undertaken only if the diggers there persisted in working under the $5 wage agreement. He informed his fellow strikers that miners of Christian County had decided to strike in sympathy with the invaders, preventing a resumption of work in this vicinity.

Reports that some of the miners had broken away from Taylorville to picket mines down-State came from coal company officials at Marion, Ill., but were denied by strike leaders and Christian County authorities.

Will Attend Funeral.

A number of the strikers left by automobile during the day, they said, to attend the funeral of Joe Colbert, slain strike leader, at Benton, Ill. Hundreds of strikers from Belleville also were reported en route to the funeral, the officials, asserted. Colbert was slain by James Sutton, a night watchman at a New Orient mine Wednesday, when Sutton claimed Colbert threatened his life.

Officials of the Peabody Co. and the authorities here continued frankly apprehensive although 1,500 vigilantes were on hand, ready to respond within 30 minutes in event of any outbreak, and four companies of National Guardsmen stood at arms within 30 miles of the trouble zone, prepared for quick action. State highway police were also ready to respond to a trouble call.

The army of miners—who avow they are campaigning for "a living wage"—completely surrounded the only Christian County mine remaining open today and sent all working miners back to their homes. Two thousand men had been employed with the mines working full capacity until the strikers arrived.

Anthracite Wage Truce Concluded

$6.95 Daily Pay Agreed Upon Until Meeting on August 29.

Shenandoah, Pa., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The mine wage dispute in the Southern anthracite district was settled amicably today, until the Anthracite Conciliation Board reviews the situation at Hazleton, August 29.

Martin F. Brennan, president of District 7, United Mine Workers of America, announced he had reached an agreement with J. A. Sharpe, general manager of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron Co., by which the company agreed to pay $6.95 a day for mechanical mining, until the board gives a decision.

Mr. Brennan previously charged the company had negotiated contracts with local unions, reducing the day's wage to $5.96 in violation of the general agreement which set the wage at $10. He threatened suspension of union work in the collieries involved. Mr. Brennan said John L. Lewis, international president of the miners union, will attend the session.

Senator King Predicts $2,000,000,000 Deficit

(Associated Press.)

Basing his prediction in part on the income reported from new tax bill sources, Senator King (Democrat), Utah, said yesterday that unless business improves materially there is prospect of a $2,000,000,000 Treasury deficit during the present fiscal year.

SENATOR WILL DENY GUILT IN LOTTERY

bers of a firm accused of promoting lotteries, and M. J. Rivise, of the Western Union package delivery department, indicted with the company on a charge of distributing the tickets.

Copies of the indictments were mailed today to the other three—Conrad H. Mann, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, Theodore G. Miller, of Aurora, Ill., and Frank E. Hering, of South Bend, Ind.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Reiterating his contention that lottery bazaars conducted by the Fraternal Order of Eagles did not violate Federal laws, Frank E. Hering, Editor of Eagles Magazine, issued a statement today, saying he believed the whole case was a question of law and its interpretations.

Hering was one of seven leaders of fraternal orders, including Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, indicted by a Federal grand jury on lottery charges involving more than $5,000,000 in collections over a two-year period.

Hering is a professor of English at Notre Dame University.

"I have now been requested by the national attorney for the Eagles to appear in New York at an early date to be fixed soon," he said.

"Further than this I have no knowledge of other interested parties and influences that may have been active in the matter. I assumed, however, that when the Western Union Telegraph Co., a great national corporation, furnished its services that the corporation must have been advised by its attorneys as we were advised by ours, that the bazaars we conducted were not a violation of any Federal statute. I still adhere to that opinion as do my associates in the Eagles."

G. O. P. "Forgetfulness" Is Attacked by Pittman

(Associated Press.)

Senator Pittman, of Nevada, in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee yesterday, asserted that if President Hoover's acceptance speech indicates the lines of the Republican campaign "it is to be marked mainly by forgetfulness."

"President Hoover," Pittman said, "certainly made every effort to have the country forget the broad promises and glittering generalities with which he misled the voters in 1928 by substituting another line of optimistic and glittering promises."

DEBUCHI IS EN ROUTE HOME FOR VACATION

Hopeful Any Differences Over Manchuria May Be Reconciled.

(Associated Press.)

Expressing himself as hopeful that if any differences exist between the United States and Japan over Manchuria they may be reconciled, Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese Ambassador, left last night for Tokyo on a leave of absence. He said he expected to return to his post here in December.

The ambassador will arrive in Japan September 8, about the time the Lytton commission expects to finish its report to the League of Nations on the Manchurian situation.

This report is awaited with much interest in Geneva and Washington as well as Tokyo.

State Department officials bade the ambassador an informal farewell at the station, as is customary when diplomats leave Washington for a temporary stay.

The ambassador was accompanied by his wife and son, Masaru, and will stop at Denver to meet his daughter, Miss Taka Debuchi, now at a camp near Colorado Springs. She will accompany her parents to Tokyo. The son will visit his uncle, Hirosho Ashino, Japanese consul at Portland, Oreg., until autumn, when he will resume his studies at Princeton.

Ambassador Debuchi planned to arrive in San Francisco the morning of August 24. He will confer there with Japanese consuls stationed on the Pacific Coast before sailing August 25 on the Chichibu Maru for Yokohama.

It is four years since Mr. Debuchi has been in Japan. Japanese foreign service men ordinarily go home every three years on leave, but the uncertain situation in Manchuria prevented his leave last year.

Debuchi left Washington in his usual jovial frame of mind. He was much pleased with the good showing Japanese athletes made at the Olympic games and said he felt such occasions do much to bring East and West closer together.

CHURCH LOTTERIES WATCHED IN DRIVE

told, sold 750 tickets at $2.50 each to a dance to be held in Los Angeles, Calif., more than 2,000 miles away.

The ball never was held but the holder of the winning ticket received $500.

Many church lotteries, according to reports of field agents of the Department of Justice, are operated at bazaars and religious fairs. Some conducted in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans and other large cities throughout the country have brought a flood of gold to the depleted church coffers.

A church in Charleston, S. C., is reported to operate a lottery each year on the Kentucky Derby, the Justice Department said.

A force of agents are particularly active now in the Southern States, where, according to the department, scores of churches have made an annual lottery a part of their year's activities. The inquiry also has embraced lotteries operated by hospitals and charitable institutions.

Justice Department officials admitted to the United Press last night that the task of snuffing out these games of chance is a gigantic one. Direct mail, telegraph, express, telephones and personal calls are used to operate them.

The telegraph and mails are relied upon chiefly for "spreading the word," the department said. A close watch is being kept on the mails, however, and violators will be quickly apprehended and punished, it was declared.

Officials said lotteries now are being operated in most sections of the country through tickets based on daily stock quotations, Treasury condition statements carried in daily newspapers, comic strips which feature code numbers, the results of sporting events.

Agents have been quietly investigating for many days baseball pools in New York and lotteries on sporting events in New Mexico, Texas and San Francisco, Calif.

Refuse Views on Davis.

Although officials of the Department of Justice freely discussed the lottery inquiry, they flatly declined to comment on the indictment of Senator Davis. It was said that some of the charges against the Pennsylvania senator may be dropped.

One official who declined to be quoted said:

"I doubt very much that Senator Davis would be involved in any direct violation of Federal laws."

Prosecution of Davis' case lies with U. S. Attorney George Medalie, of New York. It was learned from official sources that one of the lotteries allegedly conducted under the direction of Senator Davis for the Loyal Order of the Moose, which he headed until recently, sold 1,000,000 tickets at $1 each.

Lotteries Not Run Here, Says Rover

No Complaints Received Recently, and Further Action Not Planned.

No recent complaints of lottery activities in or around Washington, similar to those for which Senator James J. Davis and six others were indicted in New York Monday, have been registered with the District Attorney's office, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover said yesterday.

He said about three months ago he received a complaint that a fraternal group here was conducting a lottery. When he advised the organization of a local statute which makes this illegal, even though the mails are not used, the lottery was discontinued at once, he said.

Mr. Rover contemplates no further action unless additional complaints are received, he said.

ECUADOR CONGRESS IS AGAINST BONIFAZ

Session in Secret Moves to Block President-Elect From Office.

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Congress decided at a secret session tonight to appoint a commission which will ask President-elect Neptali Bonifaz to renounce the presidency.

He is scheduled to take office September 1 and announced he would not withdraw. There were a number of anti-Bonifaz demonstrations during the day.

Reports from Quito August 13 told of demonstrations there against the president-elect which required strong police patrols to handle.

Bonifaz was the winner in a close election October 20, 1931. Fifty members of the Ecuadorean Congress recently offered their support to Champanada Leopoldo Izquieta Perez, the leader of the opposition.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Havana was without general medical service tonight as physicians belonging to the Medical Federation of Cuba began a strike to force patients of club clinics to pay extra for treatments. Some 2,500 men, women and children now receiving medical attention at five of the clinics in Havana were left to the attention of a skeleton staff of physicians who will handle emergency cases.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—City judges today donated their gold rings, bearing the judicial insignia, to the war chest of the Sao Paulo rebellion against the federal government. Dozens of societies are assisting in the raising of funds. A total of 15,000 gifts of gold and jewels was reported yesterday. The civil militia society announced that the contributions it has received aggregate more than 30,000 contos, the equivalent of more than $2,000,000.

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Several planes ordered in the United States by the Federal government at the outset of the Sao Paulo revolt last month arrived today and were being assembled for combat work. Heavy fighting continued in the Montequeira tunnel sector between rebels and Loyalist troops on the northern front, with no important gains by either side, according to official announcements.

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Nicaraguan insurgent forces were defeated in five engagements with national guard patrols in the Pantasma Valley and near San Isidro in the past week, guard headquarters announced today. Three insurgents were killed and many wounded in four engagements with a guardia patrol commanded by Capt. Louis B. Fuller, of Richmond, Va. A guardia patrol commanded by Ben M. Lunn, noncommissioned marine, defeated an insurgent group commanded by Juan Altamirano near San Isidro, August 17, killing two and wounding several. No guard losses were reported in any of the engagements.

Panama City, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Twenty-one of Panama's rent strike leaders were held in jail today and those of foreign birth threatened with deportation. The prisoners included Cristobal Segundo, former circuit court judge, and Martin Nino, secretary of the tenants' league.

Mexico City, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—The newspaper Grafico said today that Dr. Jose Manuel Puig Casauranc, Ambassador to the United States, and Javier Sanchez Meporada, prospective minister to Sweden, are possible successors to Vicente Estada Cajigal, who resigned last night as chief of the federal district government. Puig Casauranc also is being discussed as a likely successor to Interior Secretary General Juan Jose Rios, whose resignation within a month is predicted.

Hoover Is Urged to Stop Farm Board Cotton Sale.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was asked in a telegram yesterday by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, to use his influence to stop selling of Farm Board cotton. The senator said "continued selling in New York and foreign markets demoralizes the cotton market" He proposed that the Reconstruction Corporation assist in financing the carry over of the old surplus for another year.

"I sincerely hope you can take steps to stop this destructive selling policy," Thomas said.

to Richmond," he asserted, "unless he did it with fraudulent intent." He said that the money was used to pay county warrants and stated that the prosecution had not shown the checks that he deposited were not honored or that any dishonorable act had been committed by him.

An intense appeal for the acquittal of his brother was made by Frank L. Ball. He told the jury that Ball would not allow his wife and two sons to visit the courtroom. He said, "We ask you to free him because he is not a thief and he has not been proved to be a thief."

Ball's shortage was the result of overdrafts by the county board, he declared. Ball paid them to maintain the county's credit, he said.

Many times, he said, the county's schools would have been closed if his brother had not used other county funds to pay school warrants. Mackey's statement that the funds which were due the State had been used in meeting county debts was repeated by him.

According to the report of the State auditor, T. Coleman Andrews, Ball was $564,000 short in his accounts. This figure was not brought out in testimony at the trial.

The trial opened Monday morning. The prosecution consumed three days in presenting its case. Principal among the defense witnesses were eighteen men who testified that Ball's reputation for integrity and honesty was excellent.

CONDITIONS AT DAM ATTACKED BY ODDIE

Protest Is Sent to Wilbur on Alleged Practices of Contractors.

Las Vegas, Nev., Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Strong criticism of alleged practices of the Six Companies, Inc., contractors building the gigantic Hoover Dam, was made tonight by Senator Tasker L. Oddie (Republican), Nevada, in a telegram to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur.

He charged:

The Six Companies pays workers in scrip instead of money, and workers must patronize company stores, or convert their scrip into cash at heavy discounts.

Housing and feeding, while excellent, are so commercialized by the contractors that they are making a huge profit.

Men are limited to 30 hours of work a week, by terms of the Wagner relief bill, which carried a $10,000,000 appropriation for the dam. Oddie said that men working 30 hours a week make only enough to pay for food and shelter.

The Six Companies has collected thousands of dollars in a poll tax of $3 a man, but refuses to pay the State of Nevada the money. Oddie asked an order forcing the company to turn over the money to Clark County, Nev.

Smoot Is Unopposed At Conventions Today

Salt Lake City, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Senator Reed Smoot and Utah's two representatives in Congress, the veteran Don B. Colton and Frederick C. Loofbourow, who is serving his first term, come up for renomination at State and congressional conventions of the Republican party here tomorrow.

None of the three has any announced opposition, and it was expected tonight they would be renominated, probably by acclamation. The most debatable question, aside from nomination for the governorship, was expected to be the platform declaration on prohibition.

With the start of the Eastern wing of the Transcontinental Air Derby for the Cord Trophy scheduled for tomorrow at 3 p. m. at Washington-Hoover Airport, contestants spent yesterday putting finishing touches on their ships and preparing them for the race, the winners of which will receive more than $10,000 and several automobiles as prizes.

Two local pilots are scheduled to take off in the Cord race. Henry Brown, assistant operations manager of the Ludington Line, is entered and will fly a Travel Air he recently purchased. E. W. Stitt, of 522 Roxboro place northwest, flying a Spartan, is also listed among the entrants.

In addition to the start of the Cord race Washingtonians will be treated to a varied program of flying activity starting this morning and continuing until tomorrow night.

Aerial Acrobatic Show.

At 11 a. m. the Cleveland stunt team of Betty Lund and Arthur Killips will stage an acrobatic show over the airport. Later they will make several parachute jumps.

The public will be admitted to Hoover Field at 5 p. m. for an inspection of the airplanes. At 8 p. m. the Signal Corps of the Army will put on an antiaircraft and searchlight demonstration following which the Weather Bureau will demonstrate ceiling projector work.

Roger Scott, Washington Airport pilot, will stage a pyrotechnic show at 8:30 p. m. Later he will make emergency night landings demonstrating the use of flares.

At 9 p. m. the Cleveland stunt team will make several illuminated parachute jumps.

Tomorrow at 9 a. m. the public will be given its final chance to inspect the contesting airplanes. Officials will make a final check of the ships at 11 a. m.

The planes will be moved to Washington Airport at 1:30 p. m. and at 3 o'clock they will start on the first leg of the Air Derby, to Winston-Salem, N. C. From there they will proceed through the South and up to Bartlesville, Okla., where they will meet the Western wing. At this point the two wings will merge and they will proceed to Cleveland together.

To Enter National Races.

It is expected that more than 100 planes will travel into Cleveland on the final lap to participate in the national races, August 27. The group will be augmented by several more derby fliers competing in the William B. Leeds trophy race from New York to Cleveland and the Charles Lanier Lawrence trophy race for sportsmen pilots starting from Washington-Hoover airport on August 27.

Clifford W. Henderson, managing director of the National Air Races, and E. W. "Pop" Cleveland, contest chairman of the races, arrived here yesterday to assist with preparations for the departure of contestants in the Cord Trophy race.

A large crowd visited the airport yesterday and watched the final preparations. The Navy airship Akron appeared in the morning and after circling the city released several of her small fighting airplanes over the airport. These were later drawn into the hangar constructed on the interior of the airship.

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The Navy airship Akron returned to the naval air station at 7:15 p. m. (Eastern daylight time) today and docked an hour later after a training flight of nearly fourteen hours along the coast. Commander A. H. Dresel was in command.

PIGEON 'DIVES' INTO PROPELLER

There are so many airplanes at Washington-Hoover Airport this week that even the pigeons have trouble finding unoccupied lanes in which to fly. Yesterday afternoon when landing Pilot Fred Davis, of the Ludington Line, was forced to fly his trimotored plane into a flock of the birds, one of which passed safely through one of the whirling propellers and became wedged between the cylinders. The picture shows Davis removing the bird from the engine. When placed on the ground the pigeon hobbled a little and flew away, apparently little the worse from its miraculous escape. The propeller was turning over at the rate of 1,000 revolutions a minute when the "crash" occurred.

COMPROMISE ENDS MILK WAR IN IOWA

New Schedule Represents Increase in Rate Over Prestrike Cost.

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A compromise between producers and distributors here late today resulted in termination of the milk war.

The agreement, reached after four conferences this week, provided that dairy farmers would receive $1.80 per hundred pounds for milk containing 3.05 per cent butterfat.

The new schedule, representing an increase of 55 cents over the rate in effect before the milk strike was declared August 10, becomes operative Sunday.

Under the new scale, the price of retail milk will be raised to 9 cents a quart and the wholesale price of milk will be 7 cents a quart. The producer will receive approximately 3.6 cents.

Extreme quiet, both along blockaded highways and in live stock and produce markets where truck receipts have dwindled, today marked the farmers' strike against sales.

While farmers picketed seven main highways into Sioux City, the movement to get higher prices by withholding supplies was reported spreading in nearby parts of Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota. Demands that neighbors of strikers cease marketing brought a drastic reduction in receipts of live stock and produce here by trucks, although rail shipments were unhampered. Truck receipts at the local stock yards were approximately one fifth of those a week ago, before the strike was called.

Dublin Is Optimistic On Tariff War End

Dublin, Irish Free State, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—There was optimism in Dublin tonight about relations between Britain and the Free State as the result of reports from Ottawa, but it was impossible to obtain confirmation of rumors that an agreement had been reached there by the Free State and British representatives who are attending the imperial conference.

In political circles it was assumed that an early withdrawal of tariff wars directed at each other by the Free State and Britain was likely.

SLUM BUILDING PLAN HAILED IN NEW YORK

20-Block Project May Get Federal Aid, Architect Announces.

New York, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Manhattan realty marts, lethargic since the 1929 stock market crash, quickened in new life today. The stimulant, acting with the same power as a stiff jolt of brandy or a needle of morphine, was the definite announcement that Manhattan's most cherished dream—abolition of some of the world's worst slums—was at last in final and complete form.

The announcement was scanty, but it was sufficient to arouse many elements of this compact island where side by side are the world's greatest wealth and the world's most utter poverty. Among that group of idealists and dreamers, in which is included Alfred E. Smith, who have long worked for the wiping out of the slum districts and their startling indictment of capitalistic society, there was a quickening of breath and fervent hopes that dreams were at last to be realized. Other groups saw the possibilities of fortune in the real estate activities a giant project would entail, and were busily speculating on its site.

Maurice Deutsch, engineer and architect, who has devoted years to studying low cost modern housing, announced he had placed complete plans for a 20-city block project involving expenditures of $23,575,000 before the State board of housing and the Young committee of banking and industry. These organizations were consulting with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, he said.

Mr. Deutsch's plans call for 20 city blocks of four-story fireproof apartment houses to replace 20 blocks of slums. Using new materials and specifications, "a new technology in construction and operation, and new methods of financing," rentals would range from $6 to $12 a room a month.

Mr. Deutsch would add nothing more to that statement. Reports circulating in New York financial circles for several weeks have said the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would lend a large sum to finance a large Manhattan housing project.

Mr. Deutsch's project is not new, but it is the largest of any low-rent housing plans to date. The city has erected several low-rent apartments in the slum districts and is planning to erect more.

Woman Is Cleared Of Impersonation

Acquitted in New York on Charge of Posing as U. S. Agent.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Laura Wadsworth Matsanis, 45, wife of an Atlanta, Ga., restaurateur, was acquitted by a Federal Court jury tonight on a charge of impersonating a Government agent. It was her second trial, the first having resulted in a jury disagreement last June.

The indictment against her grew out of the alien frauds investigation conducted last year by U. S. Attorney George Z. Medalie and Murray W. Garsson, Special Assistant Attorney General. She was charged, on five counts, with having misrepresented herself as an inspector of the Labor Department in demanding that a New York emigrant lawyer return part of a fee he had collected from a Greek client.

She also was alleged to have boarded the Greek liner Edison and conducted a search for aliens, who, she said, had been brought to the United States illegally. During an intermission today Mrs. Matsanis slapped A. R. Angel, a Government witness. She said Angel had insulted her.

Bitter Clashes Mark Egan's Murder Trial

San Francisco, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The second week of the murder trial of Frank J. Egan, deposed public defender, ended today with the prosecution still attempting to corroborate testimony of Verne Doran, young burglar, that he and Albert Tinnin killed Mrs. Jessie Scot Hughes, at Egan's instigation.

Superior Judge Frank H. Dunne presiding, ordered a recess until Monday, after a day of bitter clashes between attorneys as the defense attempted to block or challenge the State's efforts. Physical evidence and testimony of several witnesses were offered in support of Doran's testimony given earlier in the week that Mrs. Hughes was killed so Egan might profit from her estate.

BINGHAM REELECTED PRESIDENT OF N.A.A.

2,000-Horsepower Motor Is Predicted by Moffett, Parley Speaker.

Senator Hiram W. Bingham, of Connecticut, president of the National Aeronautical Association, was unanimously reelected president yesterday afternoon as the organization ended its eleventh annual meeting at the Mayflower Hotel.

Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam was reelected vice president. Other officers include John Victory, of Washington, treasurer; H. Ralph Badger, of Pennsylvania, secretary, and Orville Wright, Porter Adams, Godfrey L. Cabot, William P. MacCracken, jr., and C. F. Lienesch, all governors at large.

Earlier in the day Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, told the delegates that the "Navy hopes, if it can get the money, to have a motor of 2,000 horsepower in two years."

"Question of Money."

"Under a $225,000 appropriation, we have been conducting high speed research," he said, "and it is only a question of money to develop a motor equal to those developed abroad for racing.

"The next big aim for naval aviation, and one in which such a motor would fit, is the development of great flying boats—greater than any seen in the world.

"We have never had the money before, but now that we have developed leadership in the world in lighter-than-air work, the next step is to build big boats that will be as useful to the military service as in commercial air transportation.

"A ship like I have in mind would cost between $500,000 and $750,000, be sturdy enough to stand heavy seas and have a top speed of 160 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour."

To Congratulate Piccard.

A resolution was adopted by the convention to send word to Prof. Auguste Piccard and his assistant, Max Cosyns, balloonists, who reached new heights abroad, congratulating them for their efforts in the interests of aeronautical science.

Another resolution was passed urging on the Governor and Legislature of North Carolina the need for establishing a landing field at the base of Kill Devil Hill, near Kitty Hawk, N. C., where a Federal monument is being completed commemorating the world's first airplane flights by the Wright brothers, Orville and Wilbur.

Other resolutions included one urging completion of the Army's five-year aircraft building program and establishment of a new one to run the same period of time; one urging continuance of the post of Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, vacated by David S. Ingalls, and one urging Congress to establish in Washington a national aeronautic museum for the exhibition of all important aircraft collections on hand or readily available in the various branches of the Federal Government, and any collections available from other sources.

14 Freed in Gang Death; 9 Are Then Rearrested

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Fourteen men arrested in connection with the slaying of John Bazzano, of Pittsburgh, were released today when police conceded they could not be linked with the crime. Nine of them were immediately rearrested and charged with being public enemies under a new law forbidding persons with police records to associate with known criminals. The five others were allowed to go free.

Bazzano was found strangled and stabbed to death in Brooklyn on August 8. His body had been tied in a bag and tossed into the street. The fourteen suspects were arrested in a wholesale round-up on Wednesday.

MOLLISON RESTS IN ST. JOHN AFTER SOLO ATLANTIC FLIGHT

170 gallons of gasoline when he left Ireland. This fuel load was so heavy the ship got the nickname "Flying Gasoline Can."

"There were people who predicted I wouldn't be able to get off the ground with all that gas," Mollison said. "The petrol I was carrying did prevent me from rising above the cloudbanks and fog last night. The greatest altitude I obtained during the flight was 500 feet."

The thing he thought about most over the ocean, the flier said, was "getting to land."

"I'm going to fly the same machine back," he continued. "The return trip, I think, will be easy. Flying eastward over the Atlantic, you have favorable winds and there is absolutely nothing to worry me except the possibility of engine trouble—and that is a very faint possibility, indeed. There is no reason why any good engine, properly conditioned, shouldn't run for 25 or 30 hours."

Didn't Get Hungry.

He said he didn't get hungry during his westward crossing because "flying over the ocean at night, you lose your appetite."

The physical strain of the Atlantic flight was not so great as on his record-breaking hops from England to Australia in 8 days 19 hours; from London to Cape Town in 4 days 17 hours; from London to Egypt in 29 hours, and from India to England in 3 days 11 hours. But he found the mental strain much harder.

The meadow in which he brought down his little airplane is half a mile from Pennfield Ridge's railway station.

Farmers who had heard the sound of the motor overhead ran from their houses and soon there was a sizable crowd about the ship.

The slim young Scotsman went to the home of Farmer Raymond Hawkins where food was urged on him, but he would take nothing solid, contenting himself with hot tea.

He explained that all the way from Portmarnock he had eaten nothing except barley sugar, which he washed down at intervals with a few swallows of brandy.

Tarpaulins were provided to cover the plane for the night and the superintendent of the municipal airport at St. John came here to see that it was properly cared for.

Around midnight the captain was sleeping soundly and it was impossible to get confirmation from him of reports that he would fly to Montreal tomorrow to attend the Canadian air pageant, but it was understood he had accepted an invitation to do so.

According to this plan he would take off tomorrow afternoon and would stay in Montreal until Sunday, then flying to New York.

Britain Is Jubilant.

London, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Great Britain tonight shouted praise of James A. Mollison, the young Scot flier who left his bride and flew alone on the treacherous westward passage over the Atlantic from Ireland to America.

And the greatest note of triumph in the feat of Mollison was the fact that he flew an all-British plane to prove, as he said himself, the reliability of the British airplanes.

The press added that he had proved the courage and skill of British aviation heroes as well, and added a word of praise for his bride, the former Amy Johnson, who is noted for her air exploits.

"That's wonderful," Mrs. Mollison said, when informed of the safe landing. "I knew Jim would do it. I'm terribly thrilled."

Lord Londonderry, the air minister, cabled congratulations to Mollison, saying: "It is striking proof of your personal skill and courage and also of the efficiency of British aircraft and British aero engines."

Glasgow, Scotland, Aug. 19 (U.P.). James A. Mollison's mother was worried, but sure that her son would come through on his flight to America, she said tonight when informed of his arrival in Pennfield.

"My heart is content," she said. "I never left home since yesterday when Jim started the flight.

"I had every confidence from the start but when no word came this afternoon, I was naturally anxious.

"Jim never had anything but perfect confidence in his machine."

Piccard to Prepare Soon For Ascent Over Canada

Desanzano, Italy, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Prof. Auguste Piccard, the only man who has looked twice upon the world from 10 miles above it, plans to ascend to the stratosphere again next summer from the northwest shore of Canada's Hudson Bay.

In some ways it would be a more difficult flight than the first two, for the winds which blow across northern Canada might drop a balloon in wastes as dreary and inaccessible as anywhere on earth.

Nevertheless, as soon as the Belgian scientist has finished calculating results recorded by the instruments he carried on yesterday's ascension, he will begin preparations for the third experiment.

"We plan to take off from the northwest shore of Hudson Bay, as close to the North Pole as we can get," he said today. "Our purpose will be to complete the study of cosmic rays at a point where the lines of magnetic force penetrate the stratosphere. When we know how the rays act under these conditions we will have the answer to many scientific problems."

It was Max Cosyns, who accompanied him on yesterday's flight, who took the observations of the cosmic rays. Prof. Piccard gave all his attention to navigating the balloon. He said, however, that the rays increased in intensity with the altitude of the balloon until "they were like rain on a tin roof."

Arising after eleven hours' sleep this morning, the two adventurers found a stack of congratulatory telegrams, among them one from the King and Queen of the Belgians and another from Premier Mussolini.

The professor declined to talk much about the results of the flight until he had checked his instruments. He did say that he had risen nearly 55,000 feet, a point at which the temperature inside the gondola of the balloon was 5 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, and outside 67 degrees below.

EXPORTS OF COTTON CLOTH RISE FIRMLY

800 Will Resume Work at Illinois Mill Monday; Gold Stores Gain.

(Associated Press.)

Developments in business yesterday included:

Chicago—Members of the Illinois Manufacturers Association reported in a survey they believed public confidence had returned. Improvement in many lines of manufacturing and retailing was reported.

Washington—A 13 per cent gain in exports of cotton cloth from the United States in the first half of 1932, compared with the same period last year, was recorded by the Department of Commerce.

Alton, Ill.—The Western Cartridge Co.'s plant, shut down for nearly a month, announced it would resume operations next Monday with 800 former employes.

New York—A gain of $41,000,000 in gold for the United States, the largest amount of any week since June, was regarded as one of the favorable business indications in the statements of Federal Reserve Banks for the week ended August 17.

Tifton, Ga.—Prices for better grades of tobacco were reported about $4 a hundred pounds higher than a year ago. Better grades averaged $10.47 a hundred.

Portland, Oreg.—An increase of nearly 15 per cent in current new business in the Western pine producing area, as compared with the preceding week, was reported by the Western Pine Association for the week ended August 13. New business increased 4,465,000 feet, while production was off 2,798,000 feet. Unfilled orders increased 1,765,000 feet. For the year to date orders are about 36 per cent under 1931, and shipments 35 per cent less than a year ago.

Salt Lake City, Utah—The Utah Portland Cement Co. plant here will be opened next week, furnishing work for about 100 men for at least four months. The plant has been closed since last November.

York, Pa.—The York Wallpaper Co. announced, after a two-month shutdown, that it will resume operations Monday, employing 150 men. The company announced sufficient orders for capacity operation for the rest of the year.

Sheet and Tube's Operations Gain

Iron Output Increased by Resumption of Blast Furnace of Firm.

Youngstown, Ohio, Aug. 19 (A.P.). A sharp increase in operations for this week and next week was announced today by the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., including a rise in basic iron output by resumption of a blast furnace at the company's Campbell plant.

The blast furnace resumed operation today, after being idle since June 4. A Bessemer steel-making unit, also idle since June 4, went into operation with the blast furance. Three open hearth furnaces operating this week, however, will be idle next week.

A seamless stube mill, which has been working intermittently, resumed for a week's run. In addition to four sheet mills which have been working this week, one more will resume tonight and three more tomorrow. Next week a skelp mill and two tube mills, which have been working intermittently, will operate.

Hutchinson and Family On World Hop Monday

New York, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—George E. Hutchinson landed his twin motored plane at Floyd Bennett Airport tonight and announced that Monday he would begin a flight around the world.

With him will go his wife and two children and a group of moving picture cameramen. The plane is called the Flying Family, Inc. He plans to make his flight in easy stages. His first stop will be St. Johns, New Brunswick.

NEW ENDURANCE MARK SET BY TWO WOMEN

Trout and Miss Edna May Cooper in Los Angeles January 9, 1931.

The young women have been up since 1 p. m. Sunday and were on their sixth day tonight. They made a first attempt Friday, which ended the next day after 17½ hours, when a breakfast bucket being lowered from the refueling plane ripped the wing fabric of the plane and they were forced down.

A dozen planes were in the air when loud speakers of an address system were blaring the news to the crowds on the field which swelled steadily as the afternoon wore on. Many carried passengers.

Those who flew close to the "flying boudoir" reported the faces of the fliers were tanned by sun, smudged by oil and grease but alight with smiles.

The refueling plane went up with its evening quota of gasoline, a special "dinner" in the food bucket, a huge bouquet of roses and a packet of congratulatory messages and telegrams.

Since Wednesday, flight backers and friends have been anxious about the condition of Mrs. Marsalis, who became ill with pains in her side. She appeared in high spirits tonight.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Josephus Daniels, war-time Secretary of the Navy, today called upon World War veterans to "get into politics." Speaking at the annual State convention of the American Legion, Mr. Daniels urged the legionnaires to open their own recruiting stations and enlist their members for "civic justice."

Macy, Subpenaed, Accuses Walker

Says Mayor Is Attempting to Throw Political Smoke Screen.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—W. Kingsland Macy, young Republican chairman of New York State, subpenaed to appear before Gov. Roosevelt in the Walker inquiry, tonight accused Mayor James J. Walker of seeking to throw a political "smoke screen" over the findings of the Hofstadter committee. Macy said he was ready to testify at the hearing, but threw out a challenge to the Walker forces.

"If this is to be a show," he said, "let it come to a showdown." Macy was subpenaed with other Republican State leaders. The subpenaes were issued by Gov. Roosevelt at the request of John J. Curtin, Walker's counsel.

"While I am ready," Macy said, "to appear before Gov. Roosevelt and prepared to answer any and all questions appertaining to the New York City inquiry, I do regret that Mayor Walker should have found it expedient to stoop to this perfectly obvious device to twist a square-cut question of good government into a mock trial of political issues," Mr. Macy said.

Body of Boy, South Sea Cliff Victim, Is Found

Honolulu, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The body of Coleman Cartwright, 16-year-old Honolulu boy who fell 1,000 feet to the base of a cliff on Kauai Island Thursday, was found today by eight men who swam ashore at dawn from sampans.

The boy fell into the Nualolo Valley while hunting goats. Entrance to the valley was possible only from the sea, owing to its precipitous walls.

Band Serenades Walker's Return

Crowds at Grand Central Cheer Mayor After Albany Hearing.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—James J. Walker, who likes his job as mayor of "the biggest small town on earth" and wants to hang onto it, came home from the wars again tonight.

Once more a brass band puffed valiantly up the grand stairway in Grand Central Station blaring forth "Happy Days Are Here Again," while the rotunda echoed with cheers. There were, however, no roses strewn in his path tonight.

In the private car of his friend, Paul Block, whose joint brokerage account paid the mayor a profit of $246,000 and thereby furnished Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter committee, with material for one of his fifteen "conclusions," Mayor Walker left Albany immediately after the hearing adjourned this afternoon.

Probe in Rich Hawaii Woman's Death Asked

New York, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Ralph L. Shainwald, jr., today asked the Federal Department of Justice to intervene in the Honolulu investigation into the death of his sister, Mrs. Marion Sevier, wife of a former United States Army officer, whose body was recently exhumed for further examination.

Shainwald, who believes his sister died of poisoning, leaving a fortune of approximately $1,000,000, wired Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General, asking an inquiry since his sister "died on Federal territory." Shainwald said that conflicting statements had been made regarding the original burial of Mrs. Sevier.

EIGHT FARM CREDIT BOARDS ARE PLACED

Regional Corporations to Be Formed at Once to Aid Live Stock Owners.

(Associated Press.)

Immediate formation of eight regional credit corporations to inaugurate a program of feeder live stock loans was announced yesterday by the Reconstruction Corporation.

The pressing need for this form of farm relief out of the way, the finance agency said it later would set up two other farm aid corporations—one in Land Bank District No. 3, composed of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, with headquarters at Columbia, S. C., and the other in District No. 5, comprising Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, with main offices at New Orleans.

All of the banks to be formed immediately are located in the West and Middle West. The live stock feeding season is about to start and the corporation has been advised there is urgent need for financial assistance for farmers who handle feeder cattle.

Work to Be Speeded.

The directors of the finance corporation said they would proceed as rapidly as possible to get actual operations under way with the hope that "the regional credit corporations will move promptly, energetically and sympathetically for the benefit of agriculture."

The land bank districts and the cities in which main offices and branches will be located follow:

District 4—Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee: Main office, Columbus, Ohio; branch, Louisville.

District 6—Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas: Main office, St. Louis; branches, Chicago, Kansas City, Mo., and Little Rock.

District 7—Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota: Main office, Minneapolis; no branch.

District 8—Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming: Main office, Sioux City, Iowa; branch, Omaha.

District 9—Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and New Mexico: Main office, Wichita, Kans.; branches, Oklahoma City and Denver.

Other Districts.

District 10—Texas: Main office, Fort Worth; branches, Houston and San Angelo.

District 11—Arizona, Utah, Nevada and California: Main office, Salt Lake City; branches, San Francisco and Phoenix, Ariz.

District 12—Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington: Main office, Spokane; branches, Helena, Mont., and Portland, Oreg.

The agricultural credit corporations are being formed under a section of the law which turns over to the Reconstruction Corporation much of the farm relief work done by the Federal Farm Loan Board and the Department of Agriculture. The law gave the Reconstruction body within its discretion, power to establish corporations with a minimum capitalization of $3,000,000 each.

Today's announcement did not state what the capitalization of the individual corporations would be. It is understood, however, that it may vary considerably according to the needs of the various sections.

STEPS TO CURB HUGE GOLD FLIGHTS SEEN

ment, summing up the present work of the corporation, was obtainable at its offices.

Corporation officials said the flow of applications was not as heavy as it had been.

The directors now hold daily meetings, whereas they met night and day for a long period to meet the demands. The actual number of applications filed varies from day to day.

Other Factors.

Other factors named by an informed official as entering into the more optimistic attitude of the President as to the general economic situation were creation of the Commodities Finance Corporation in New York; the forthcoming presidential conference with business groups from the several Federal Reserve districts, from which the President is hopeful further organized attack upon depressive forces will flow, and the improved levels in the commodity and security markets.

As to the stock market rise, the same administration leader characterized the advance to date in price levels as representing a rise "from panic to depression levels."

President Hoover was described as viewing the market situation as indicative of a turning point in public psychology.

His survey of all the conditions noted has given rise to the conviction, as related by those closest to him, that the "move from defense to powerful attack upon the depression," which he mentioned in his acceptance address, has already taken place.

Thomas Declines Post As Farm Board Member

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday received and announced the declination of Ernest B. Thomas, of Rushville, Ind., to accept his recent appointment as a member of the Federal Farm Board.

One of the President's secretaries said Thomas, who was named by Mr. Hoover several days ago, had informed him that "other business affairs" kept him from accepting the appointment. Thomas would have filled the vacancy left on the board by Samuel McKelvie, who retired more than a year ago.

Naturally, in the plans come in the question of school luncheons. This is a vital question to both children and mothers. For much of the success in school comes under the head of "school lunches." Unless the children have a proper noontime meal their work will not measure up to their possibilities.

The Saturday Food Page is interested in this matter of school lunches.

It will give a special book prize for the best plan for school lunches sent in by a reader of this page. Address all such communications to the Food Editor, Washington Post.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

A PICNIC meal can be just as nourishing, well-balanced and appetizing as a meal indoors. The sandwiches should offer a variety of foods. Here's a good picnic menu: Plain bread and butter sandwiches, tuna fish sandwiches and baked bean and ketchup sandwiches, raw vegetable salad, raisin cookies, coffee or hot cocoa. Raisin-filled cookies make a good dessert, they're so easily handled. A meal like this can be packed up at home, in half an hour or so—and then you're off for the country.

Or if you like to build a fire on the beach, or beside a lake, and prefer a cooked picnic, try:

Broiled meat cakes wrapped in bacon, baked potatoes, roasted in the coals of the fire; fried onions, fresh tomatoes and cucumber strips, olives and pickles, fresh fruit for dessert, and doughnuts.

For fresh fruit take a melon along, with a sharp knife so that you can cut it in wedges for every one to eat "a la pickaninny."

Or take bananas or apples or fresh pineapple.

Fresh pineapple can be prepared at home and carried in glass quart jars, and here's a "helpful hint:" Take along a big coffee pot—gallon in size, if you have one. Nobody ever has too much coffee on a picnic. Take a small dipper to fill the cups with. A gallon-size coffee pot does not pour very easily.

Here's another hint for picnickers. If you're going to a cottage or summer camp remember that many an oil stove in a summer cottage has only one or two burners. So take along some parchment paper, wrap your vegetables in it, each kind of vegetable in a separate piece of paper, and you can cook them in the same kettle, over one burner, leaving the other burner for the coffee pot or the meat skillet.

Here's something else. If you're going away for over Sunday don't forget a few cans of soup. Then, if a sudden shower comes up it's pretty nice to have some canned soup, and other foods, on hand.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

The Bureau of Home Economics, of the Department of Agriculture, has prepared some interesting new recipes, as follows:

Fried Apples and Bacon.

Select good tart apples. Peel them. Cut them in 1-inch cubes. Fry the bacon in a heavy skillet. As soon as the slices of bacon are crisp, remove and drain them on clean brown paper and keep in a warm place. Leave about one-fourth cup of bacon fat in the skillet and fill it up with the apples. Sprinkle on two or three tablespoons of sugar. Apples fried this way require a little more sugar than ordinary fried apples. Cover the apples. Cook slowly until tender. Then remove the cover and turn the apples gently, so the pieces will keep their shape. Let them brown lightly. They are then almost transparent. Place them on a hot platter, and surround them with the crisp bacon.

Apple Sauce.

Wash, peel, quarter and core the apples; or if the sauce is to be put through a colander, leave the skins on. Cook the apples in a covered pan, using just enough water to keep them from scorching. If apples are cooked in a covered pan, the steam will help to cook them. Cook rapidly, until the apples are soft, adding a little more water if necessary. If the skins have been left on, put the sauce through a colander or a sieve and then sweeten to taste. A dash of salt and a little butter improve the flavor. Adding the sugar after the apples are strained gives a fresher taste and saves sugar. One need not waste sugar on the apple sauce which does not go through the sieve.

Variety of flavor may be secured by adding spices, such as cinnamon, nutmeg, or cloves, or lemon juice. Nutmeg should be used only on apple sauce which is to be eaten at once. Apple sauce flavored with nutmeg is apt to become bitter on standing. The best-flavored apples make the best sauce.

Fruit Cup.

Many combinations of fruit, fresh or canned, may be used for fruit cup. Use colors that blend, and combine acid fruit with sweet. Grapes, oranges, grapefruit, canned pineapple and white cherries are attractive. Mix the fruit and chill for about one-half hour before serving.

Strawberries Supreme.

1 quart selected very ripe berries
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup or more powdered sugar

Wash the berries well, drain and cap. Whip the cream until thick, add the salt and the sugar. Continue the whipping until all are well blended. Fold the berries into the cream until each berry is coated with the cream. Take care not to crush them. Serve at once. If the berries stand after combining with the cream, the juice is likely to be drawn from them and the cream thinned.

Spice Cake.

1½ cups sugar
¾ cup butter
3 eggs
3 cups sifted soft-wheat flour
¾ cup coffee
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream the butter and sugar, add the eggs, one at a time, and beat well. Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add them to the liquid mixture. Add the vanilla. Bake either in a loaf or in layers. Ice with vanilla frosting.

Cream Puffs.

½ cup butter
1 cup hot water
1 cup flour
4 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt

Add the butter to the hot water and bring to the boiling point, and add the flour and salt, all at one time. Stir rapidly and constantly until the paste leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from the fire and when cool add the eggs one at a time, beating until thoroughly blended with the paste mixture. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet about 2 inches apart. During baking the dough expands to twice or more its original size. Bake in a hot oven, 450 to 475 degrees F., until puffed and a golden brown. When cool cut and fill the lower half with seasoned whipped cream, crushed fruit or custard mixture. Cover with the other half of the puff and sprinkle powdered sugar over the top. This quantity makes eight medium-sized puffs.

Apple Turnovers.

Cut apples in slices. Place on one-half a round of pastry. Season with butter, cinnamon and sugar. Dampen one edge of the pastry and bring the other edge over it. Press the two edges together firmly, about half an inch deep, with a fork, so the juice will not ooze out. Prick the top crust so the steam can escape, and bake in a hot oven.

COLE SLAW RECIPE WINS POST AWARD

Year-Round Salad Made Appealing Dish by Mrs. Harrison.

A recipe for cole slaw was awarded this week's Post food page prize. The $5, given weekly, went to Mrs. S. K. Harrison, of 27 Eighth street northeast, who submitted the recipe.

Cole slaw, a year-round salad, finds especial favor in the summer. Mrs. Harrison's method of preparation should insure a delightful dish.

To be eligible in the recipe contests of The Post, formulas for food concoctions which are sent in should use some ingredients handled by the advertisers on the Saturday Food Page of The Post.

The recipe follows:

The Very Best Cole Slaw.

2½ tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1½ tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon mustard
1 piece of butter (size of an egg)
1 cup of sour cream
1 egg

Mix all ingredients except vinegar and cream in a bowl.

Scald vinegar and add mixture, letting it cook slowly until quite thick. After it is cold add cream.

This is sufficient for one large head of cabbage.

Put cabbage through the food-chopper, using the finest blade; then wrap it in a piece of cloth, and squeeze out all moisture.

After mixing with the dressing, pack it in a bowl or pan, which can be put on ice. Garnish with hard boiled eggs, and serve with mayonaise. Also very nice stuffed in large, ripe tomatoes, which have been peeled and chilled.

The cabbage and tomatoes at the K street market are particularly fine, and all other ingredients, including mayonnaise and nice fresh eggs can be obtained at the Sanitary stores.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Food news in late August should contain some paragraphs about peaches. Very well. With that premise as a guide, the Meanderer tracked down the late summer peaches to one of their principal haunts, and found one marketer who deals in peaches in a flourishing manner, his trade measured by bushels and carloads.

Large Elberta and Georgia Belle peaches, mellow and rich flavored, popular varieties for canning, are plentiful everywhere this week-end, and not expensive. In this particular fruit-selling house the Meanderer visited, such choice peaches sell for $1 to $1.50 a bushel.

Melons, of all sizes, shapes and flavors, are pleasing their many buyers in the local food stands. Watermelons, still coming by boat, by rail and by truck from the Carolinas, Maryland and Virginia, cost as little as 15 cents and as much as 60 cents, depending upon sizes and quality; cantaloupes, fewer in number than a week ago, are still of good quality, and cheap, selling in one place the Meanderer visited at six or seven for 25 cents or four for 15 cents; the lesser-known, high quality Persian melon, twice the size of a cantaloupe, and much higher priced, and the tempting honey dew or honey ball melons, complete the variety that local food buyers are enjoying.

On a triangular location of importance in a market of southwest Washington, near the river front, an interesting building project is under way. New food stands to house more than 100 retail dealers are to be constructed. For the most part the big Southwest market has been composed of wholesale dealers, and, therefore, visited mostly by wholesale buyers.

The home jam shelf still may have huckleberry jam added to the varieties thereon, for crates of huckleberries are plentiful this week at $2.50 each. This price means that the cost per box is less than 8 cents. The dealer in crates of huckleberries, the Meanderer learned, is willing to break crates into smaller quantities, as little as four quarts, at a price only slightly higher than the rate per crate.

Tomatoes are phenomenally cheap at present. Five cents a pound is a common quotation on them. In one stand the Meanderer was allowed to hand-pick her own purchase at the rate of 3 pounds for 10 cents.

Potatoes are selling at wholesale, and in some places at retail, for little more than 1 cent a pound. In most years such high quality potatoes would not be sold so cheaply.

Apples—red, red and yellow, and green, but not green to sourness—are in early and surprising perfection and in great quantities on the August market, auguring well for the later crops to come. The early varieties, such as Maiden Blush, Summer Rambo and Wealthy, sell for from 75 cents, or perhaps a little less, to $1.50 a bushel. Baskets of apples in rows, stacks and closely packed walls crowd the bushels of peaches for space in the markets.

In the flower-selling booths asters continue to dominate, with gladioli on the wane and dahlias in only their first showings.

The heat of this week has made citrus fruits for cooling drinks move rapidly to the consumer. The supply of oranges is increasing in Washington. Excellent juice oranges of medium size frequently sell for 25 cents a dozen. Lemons bring about the same price. The small juicy yellow limes cost about the same as lemons, while the large green Persian limes are more expensive. A small Porto Rican lime, deep green and juicy, sells for less than 30 cents a dozen.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Suit has been brought in the Alexandria Civil Court by the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce against approximately 30 members of the organization for the collection of unpaid dues and balances, and judgments were rendered against about half the number, it was learned yesterday.

Upon the reorganization of the chamber of commerce about two years ago members were asked to enter into three-year contracts, it being determined to give the new plan of organization a three-year trial. It is said that a number of the members claim they did not understand this feature of their contracts, and were under the impression that they had only signed up for one year. In several cases the dues were paid after the suits had been filed in court.

Officials of the trade body state that they granted the members every opportunity to pay their back dues before the suits were filed, and the suits were brought only "against those who showed no inclination to pay off their obligations."

The reorganization plan called for 1,000 members at annual dues of $25, and for the employment of a business manager for three years with all expenses paid. Dan S. Hollenga is the business manager, and president and secretary are elected annually. James T. Preston has been secretary since the formation of the original organization, more than 20 years ago.

"We have been eyeing each other long enough," he said. "In Europe we believe nothing can be done against the depression unless the American market regains its former purchasing power. Here you believe that little can be done unless Europe becomes prosperous, yet in practice neither makes a great effort to help the other."

Ban on Marathons Proposed in West

Kansas City Contests Would Not Last Over 12 Hours by Regulation.

Kansas City, Mo. (U.P.).—Marathons may be all right in their place, but Kansas City is not their place, holds Charles H. Clark, member of the city council. He introduced in the council an ordinance to empower the director of health to regulate such contests and prohibit the contests from lasting more than twelve hours a day. The action was intefpreted as a revival of the spirit which led the country unsuccessfully to try to halt a "walkathon" of some four months duration. The measure requires:

That any person, firm or corporation promoting a bicycle race, walking, dancing, speed or endurance contest, furnish the city director of health, information concerning the nature and purpose of such contest. That a permit must be obtained from the director of health. That each participant submit to a physical examination.

It would make it a misdemeanor to promote a contest of more than twelve hours' duration. Flagpole sitting is not specifically mentioned.

Shots Halt Driver After Long Chase

Montgomery Police Arrest Hyattsville Man as Speeder and Drinker.

Following a chase of more than 2 miles, punctuated by flying lead and bursting tires, John Hopkins, of Hyattsville, Md., yesterday was arrested by police of Montgomery County and charged with exceeding a speed of 40 miles an hour and driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Policemen Robert Howes and Laurence Dixon, of the Silver Spring substation, received a call that a drunken man was disturbing the neighborhood near Avenal and went to the place. As they approached the man climbed into his automobile and started away at a high rate of speed, they said. They gave chase up the Columbia boulevard.

When they tried to drive alongside and halt him, he tried to run them from the road, they reported. After they had chased him 2 miles, the policemen began shooting, causing three tires of the car to explode. He finally was halted in Prince Georges County, where they hailed State Policeman T. T. Griffin to aid in the arrest. Hopkins was turned over to the county men and brought back to Silver Spring.

Many Laudatory Messages Sent Vice President, Who Is on Way to Capital.

"The reaction has been fine and I am greatly pleased with the many telegrams I have received," said the Vice President as he thumbed through a stack of congratulatory messages on his desk.

Mr. Curtis did not make the messages public, but said they did not single out for praise any particular sections of his address, in which he declared his personal opposition to the return of the saloon and repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He spent part of the day at his office where, while not busy saying farewell to his neighbors and other callers, he read the many telegrams commenting on his acceptance speech.

Weston Has Small Lead in Wyoming

Nomination for Governor Is Virtually Conceded Him, However.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Although virtually conceded the Republican gubernatorial nomination by his two opponents, Harry R. Weston, of Jackson, State treasurer, tonight held a lead of only 320 votes over his nearest rival, A. N. Clark, acting governor, on unofficial returns from 622 of Wyoming's 660 precincts, in Tuesday's primary.

2 MARYLAND POSTS RAP B. E. F. EVICTION

Methods Called "Inhumane" by Silver Spring and Hyattsville Groups.

Two nearby Maryland American Legion posts have adopted resolutions condemning the methods used in evicting the bonus army from Washington.

The methods were termed "unwarranted and inhumane in the extreme and without cause" in a resolution adopted by the Cissel Saxon post of Silver Spring. The resolution commends the efforts of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, Brig. Gen. Milton A. Reckord and the officials of Montgomery County and Maryland for the way in which the veterans were handled in passing through Maryland after their eviction. Appreciation of the "patient attitude and sympathetic understanding during this regrettable incident" of Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, Washington superintendent of police, also was voiced.

Delegates from the Snyder-Farmer post of Hyattsville were instructed to vote for the adoption of a resolution condemning the methods used in evicting the bonus veterans at the State convention of the Legion in Ocean City. The delegates also were instructed to ask the convention to combat propaganda against nonservice connected disabilities and to request an investigation of the methods of the examining boards of the U. S. Veterans Bureau. They also are to work for an amendment which would provide for inclusion of a member from each post on each of the important committees.

Caesar L. Aiello was authorized to write to Representative Royal Johnson, of South Dakota and ask for proof of statements credited to him which claim that "the Federal Government is ready to prove that arms and ammunition were secreted at the bonus camp" and to send a copy of his letter to the South Dakota department of which the representative is a member.

LOANS FOR COMMODITIES.

President Hoover's National Credit Corporation, organized last fall to mobilize bank credit where it was most needed, serves as a model for the $50,000,000 Commodities Finance Corporation set up by Wall Street bankers to aid in the marketing of crops. The New York bankers are not trying to inflate commodity prices, but merely to use idle money to supplement credit facilities for purchasing and marketing agricultural and other commodities.

Reports that the bankers would organize a pool for the stabilization of commodity prices proved to be untrue. The Commodities Finance Corporation is not in any sense a pool, but a banking arrangement to extend credit where needed. It will not purchase commodities, except as that might become necessary to protect a loan. Wall Street has seen too many stabilization ventures fail to waste any efforts in that direction. But bankers are quite willing to carry out Eugene Meyer's suggestion that credit be made available for legitimate transactions involving staple commodities in all parts of the country.

In some communities banking facilities have broken down. Many rural banks that are still solvent hesitate to make loans on commodities because of hangover fears from the recent money crisis. Hence, manufacturers are frequently unable to obtain credit for the purpose of buying raw materials at the present low prices.

On the other side of the picture are the great banks of New York bulging with money that is lying idle. Business is slack and the demands for commercial credit are far below normal. The banks have acquired extensive lending power through the open market operations of the Federal Reserve board. New York banks that are members of the Federal Reserve system have excess reserves amounting to $120,000,000. This is sufficient to create more than $1,000,000,000 in credit. The banks are anxious to employ their lending power in legitimate business transactions to increase their earnings.

While there is no direct effort to stabilize commodity prices in this credit expansion movement, its natural result should be a stiffening of prices and more orderly marketing. Distress selling will not be necessary if ample credit is available. Commodity prices advanced nearly 1 per cent in July. Indications are that the upward trend has continued during August. Without applying any artificial boost to commodity prices the Commodities Finance Corporation will fortify the agencies that are already working toward more satisfactory prices.

THE BOON OF SOUND MONEY.

The manifold difficulties encountered by the nations that have been forced off the gold standard have brought severe handicaps to trade and government finances. If any further proofs of the inestimable value of stable currency were needed, beyond the lessons afforded by the pages of financial history, many current examples of countries in distress can be studied as warnings.

The European nations that abandoned the gold standard following the action of Great Britain have experienced a year of disaster that has brought a train of evils, paralysis of trade through exchange difficulties, loss of credit, and defaults in the payment of debts both private and public. In England, with greater resources and experienced management, the bad effects of a cheapened currency have been somewhat mitigated, but the demands being made at Ottawa by the mother country give evidence of desperate economic and financial straits in Britain.

The beneficial effects of inflation in any form are illusory and always temporary. A brief advantage secured through cheaper production costs, which stimulate exports, is soon offset by a rise in living costs, while all trade suffers by the fluctuation of money values. Not only are European countries closely allied with the pound sterling suffering in a welter of falling currency values, but Japan is worried over the exchange value of the yen, which has fallen to the lowest point in its history.

The Japanese Diet meets next week to consider the appropriation of supplementary budget funds that will bring the year's total up to 2,000,000,000 yen, with an approximate deficit of 40 per cent. The uncertainties of the political situation, as well as the heavy deficit and the suspension of gold redemption, have contributed to the fall of the yen below 50 per cent of its parity. The low exchange rate, while stimulating exports, has created a distrust in the currency which has resulted in abnormal purchases of cotton and other commodities whose values appear more stable than the yen. The flight from the yen is also accentuated by fears that further currency inflation is contemplated.

No country in the world would suffer so greatly from inflation as the United States. Granted that a limited number of debtors who borrowed money when commodity prices or incomes were higher, might be benefited by cheap money, a vastly greater number would be injured. Every citizen with a bank account, with property, with life insurance or a business would be penalized for his thrift and good-husbandry, to the full extent of the depreciation.

The United States with its gold currency unimpaired, is the first nation in the world to show signs of recovery from the world depression. Nothing would so quickly check the upward trend and plunge the Nation once more into the depths of hard times as meddling with the gold dollar. While Congress was in session the mere possibility that inflationary measures might be passed kept commerce and industry at a standstill. The first move toward renewed activity came after Congress adjourned. Now Speaker Garner announces that if the Democratic party is placed in power its policy will favor adulteration of the American dollar.

JOHN BULL'S COMPLAINT.

Reports from Ottawa that the delegates to the British imperial economic conference are aroused over the alleged "dumping of services" by the American merchant marine are amusing to any one who is familiar with the struggles of this country to build up a merchant fleet. One could not expect Great Britain to be enthusiastic over the development of the American merchant marine. But in view of the extensive revenue derived by British vessels from American trade and tourist traffic, it is strange that a complaint of this kind should be injected into the imperial conference.

A subcommittee found that British shipping between American ports and Australia, New Zealand and the Fiji Islands has been damaged by competition with the American merchant marine which obtains a subsidy from the Government. Apparently the British interests think they should have a monopoly on the movement of American goods to the South Seas. If American ships were grabbing the trade between India and Britain or between South Africa and Australia there might be some ground for complaint. But a protest against the transportation of American goods in American bottoms to a foreign market is far-fetched.

This criticism of the United States was not made openly. It was expurgated from the final report adopted by the conference. Indications are that it is to be hushed up until a special committee to be set up in London has time to investigate the entire subject. Some one suggested that hasty action might injure British shipping in the Atlantic. A sudden burst of sagacity restrained the impulse to cry out against the United States because it wants to reserve part of its ocean freight for vessels carrying the American flag.

During 1931 American vessels carried 37 per cent of the cargo moving to and from this country in international commerce. British ships carried 28 per cent of the same traffic and the remaining 35 per cent was transported under other foreign flags. Britain also skims the cream off from the American passenger traffic. Only 29 per cent of the passenger business to and from United States ports in 1931 went to American vessels, while 41 per cent of this lucrative traffic went to British ships.

These figures represent only American trade. British shipping interests do a flourishing business transporting American tourists and cargoes, especially in the Atlantic. It is improbable that Britain would be so indiscreet as to protest officially against the activities of American ships carrying American cargoes on the Pacific when so much of her shipping in the Atlantic depends upon the good will of American shippers. But if the committee's findings at Ottawa should be taken seriously, it might become necessary for Uncle Sam to inform John Bull that he intends to develop a merchant marine of his own, whether or not the idea meets with John's approval.

Government subsidies are essential to offset the lower costs of building and operating ships in other countries. So long as that remains true, the Government can be expected to lend money for shipbuilding and to award ocean mail contracts that will keep the Stars and Stripes on the seas.

NEW INDUSTRIES.

Having witnessed what the world-record development of the automobile industry did to dispel unemployment and depression, and how radio put in a valiant oar about twenty years later to build in a decade a business running into billions, it is not surprising that industry should now be scanning the horizon for the appearance of an infant industry that might give similar promise of becoming a giant.

While no such revolutionary invention as the automobile is in sight today, several newcomers in industry are making a decided impression upon business and undoubtedly are destined to play important parts in the total of American production. Automatic electric and gas refrigerators are finding general acceptance and are being shipped to all parts of the world. Virtually no new apartment houses are built without this improvement being included in the specifications.

Oil-burning heaters are rapidly coming into more general use, and the number of companies engaged in the manufacture of the appliances that provide automatic control of the heating plant indicate the growing demand. Possibly most important of all is the latest arrival, the complement of the winter furnace, the summer cooler and conditioner of the air. From the first device that provided cool theaters, hotels and important offices, has grown the small unit, suited for the cooling of a private dwelling or even a single room. The latest plant is the inevitable combination that heats in winter and cools in summer. That air cooling and conditioning will develop into a great business is certain.

The airplane is not so new, but it is destined to add to American industry. Air travel, sport and transport are growing steadily in this country, and the ramifications of the side lines connected with this service are many. The new electrical devices being placed on the market are numerous and useful. Americans are prone to experiment and quick to try new things. There is none of the hide-bound traditional usage of implements and methods here that keeps the people of many other lands adhering to the ways of their forefathers. This is the land of the inventor, and happily for him millions of his countrymen are curious to try new things as soon as they are in the market.

THE COPPER TARIFF.

The copper industry of Michigan sees its eventual salvation in the duty of 4 cents a pound placed on imports by the last Congress. American copper production today is reported to be less than current consumption, but heavy stocks have been accumulated from the output of United States mines and by large imports before the tariff became effective. The reserve is more than sufficient for a year's market needs in this country. Since African and Canadian copper can be delivered here at 6 cents a pound it became impossible for Michigan mines to compete with imports, as their production cost runs to about 9 cents.

The Utah Copper Co. and the Phelps-Dodge Co., of Arizona, are the only American concerns that can compete with imported copper or market their product at present prices with even a narrow margin of profit. Michigan copper must bring a price of at least 10 or 11 cents. Michigan mines today are being worked at a loss with the double purpose of providing for employes with all possible spread of work and to avoid the expense and loss that would be caused by closing the shafts.

The foreign markets that were formerly supplied in large measure from the United States are now served by countries that have a billion pounds of excess production. With the protection afforded by the new tariff duty, copper interests expect to see prices, after extensive stocks on hand have been absorbed, stabilized around 11 to 12 cents. Copper producers are among those who hope for a modification of regulatory laws that will enable them to agree upon a production program and pool their surplus stocks.

It is evident, at least in so far as the Michigan copper mines are concerned, they would be barred from even the expectation of profitable operation in the future without the tariff. With the present protection they are encouraged to carry on even at a loss until surplus stocks are used up and market conditions improve.

After its begging Governor had been refused a Federal loan, Pennsylvania finds that it can scratch up $12,000,000 for its own relief. Some States are independent, and others have self-government thrust upon them.

NOMINATION REFUSALS

From the Des Moines Register.

In no case has the nominee for the Presidency of the Republican or the Democratic party declined to accept after having been nominated. Such declinations have been confined to minor parties. In 1872, Democrats who bolted their party when it nominated Greeley met in convention in Louisville, and nominated Charles O'Conor for the Presidency and John Quincy Adams for the Vice Presidency. O'Conor declined. So did the next nominee of the convention, James Lyon. Adams refused to be considered for the presidential nomination, or for the vice presidential, unless O'Conor headed the ticket. The convention finally let the nominations of O'Conor and Adams stand, in spite of the declinations, and about 30,000 votes were cast for them in the election.

And in 1916, Roosevelt refused to accept the presidential nomination tendered him by a convention of what was left of his Progressive party of 1912. The party went into the election with a candidate for Vice President, but none for President, and received about 43,000 votes.

In 1904, Alton B. Parker sent a message to the Democratic convention, which had just nominated him for the Presidency, announcing that he stood for the gold standard, on which the Democratic platform was silent. The message said further that if this position of its presidential candidate was unacceptable to the convention, the nomination would be declined at once, so that another might be made before adjournment. After considerable discussion, the convention let the nomination stand.

In 1924, Lowden declined to accept the vice presidential nomination after the Republican convention gave it to him, and the convention thereupon replaced him with Dawes.

There have been several instances subsequent to the Civil War in which the presidential nomination was refused before the convention by one who had an excellent chance of receiving it. In the Roosevelt refusal of 1904 to run in 1908 and the Coolidge refusal of 1927 to run in 1928, the question of a third term entered. The refusal of Hayes in 1877 to run again in 1880 was inspired by his election through the action of the House of Representatives in the disputed contest with Tilden.

PAUL HUDSON.

PHILANTHROPY PRACTICAL.

Villejuif, a suburb of Paris, according to the Christian Science Monitor, is very proud of one of its inhabitants. His name is Rechstein, and instead of merely talking about the economic situation, he has done his bit toward helping people through it. He is the owner of 50 acres of land which until recently have been cultivated by market gardeners. He decided, however, not to renew the leases of these gardeners when they fell due, but instead to loan the land, in allotments, to any one who promised to cultivate vegetables thereon, for an unlimited period of time. And not content with doing this, he has even placed cars at the disposal of prospective "tenants" to conduct them from Villejuif to choose the particular plots of ground which they will cultivate.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE: Go ahead and swim with your crowd—so long as the pool is sanitary and is patronized by decent people. There is no better form of exercise, and it's about the only kind you can enjoy when the weather is like this.

I can't pretend to approve modern bathing suits. My opinions and standards were formed before your day and I can't change them. Men of my school simply can't enjoy having their women folk exposed in public.

But I realize that a new generation can't be judged by the standards of an old one. The customs of any age seem right to the people of that age.

But I do insist that you use the least immodest bathing suit you can find.

A bathing suit is a swimming costume. Those of yesteryear were silly because they made swimming difficult.

Common sense and good taste usually agree. They suggest a bathing suit that affords the maximum coverage without interfering with comfort or movement. That much I concede.

But when a suit is more abbreviated than swimming freedom requires, its purpose is to make the wearer's body a free show for spectators. And that is vulgar. It suggests what the Freudians call an "exhibition complex."

I have seen a few like that this summer, and they were not merely immodest. They were disgusting. They seemed much more indecent than nakedness.

The naked South Sea Islander isn't immodest because he doesn't feel immodest and doesn't violate the standards of his time and place.

Your sex and generation enjoy unprecedented freedom. Naturally there is some inclination to overdo it. People always go too far when they are first turned loose.

Sometimes, perhaps, you won't know where freedom quits and license begins. Here is an idea that will help you.

You have a trained conscience. That is, you know right from wrong, so that you can't stumble blindly into wrong-doing under the impression that you are doing right.

If you are honest with yourself, you aren't likely to be immodest or vulgar or immoral so long as you do nothing in a spirit of bravado, nothing to show off, nothing that requires concealment, nothing that offends your conscience or threatens your self-respect.

You must conform to the styles and customs of your age to avoid seeming queer. But be sure they are the styles and customs of the right people. Love, DAD.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

A Will of Her Own.

Houston Post.

The lady who will sit in the upper house at Washington as the duly elected representative of Arkansas will not be a "rubber stamp senator." That much has been demonstrated clearly during her brief public career.

When Mrs. Hattie Caraway, by appointment of the governor of Arkansas, last year succeeded her late husband, Thaddeus Caraway, in the Senate, she cast several votes in accordance with the way in which Senator Robinson, the senior Senator from her State, cast his. She was immediately referred to as "Senator Robinson's second vote." But not for long. Pretty soon they were saying that she was deliberately voting contrary to Robinson, to defy his leadership of the party.

Be that as it may, in the latter part of the last session of the Senate, Mrs. Caraway showed a considerable degree of independence in voting. It can not be said she always took the right position. She unquestionably was wrong when she opposed establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. But she doubtless expressed her convictions on the issue. Her Senate colleagues learned that she was not taking dictation from anybody.

Hoover's Liquor Solution.

Kansas City Star.

It is the evident sincerity of Mr. Hoover as well as his carefully reasoned conclusion that has made it possible for large numbers from both the wet and dry groups to give enthusiastic support to the President's solution of the prohibition question. The Hoover program was offered as a sane and constructive solution of a trying problem. It has been widely accepted as such. It was a frank and straightforward proposal. There has been no complaint that its meaning was obscure. It can not be said that it has met favor because of ambiguity that would permit each side to read into it an idea that was agreeable. The change offered was resigned to better conditions, to eliminate evils without sacrificing gains. Surely, that is what the conscientious, serious-minded people of America want.

The Monroe County Appeal has the nerve to suggest that while we are in the repeal business, regulating prohibition, women's suffrage should come in for consideration. We agree with our contemporary that the women have mussed up politics in many cases, and their presence in conventions has a tendency to confuse matters. But we will warn the Appeal that to repeal women's suffrage is a big undertaking, and one which is going to get the women down on us.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Only Beer? He-Men of Old, Devoted to the Whisky Devil, May Surprise Everybody.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As one who in his day has been quite familiar with booze in its several degrees of alcoholic content, it seems to me that it will be a case of "confusion worse confounded" if beer is legalized as proposed by Mr. Beck in the House and Mr. Bingham in the Senate and their followers.

There is nothing new in the dispute as to whether beer is intoxicating. It was the moot question of many a barroom symposium as far back as I can remember. There were plenty of careful drinkers not ashamed to confess that they could be soused by beer in large quantities, but the class of drinkers of which I was a shining light were inclined to consider beer a drink for babes. They were the fellows who could not enjoy the kick in anything short of hard liquor. With the appearance of legalized beer, these robust citizens will awake to the fact that their thirst has been slighted, and an interesting state of affairs will develop. What will happen may be more or less surprising to some people.

The Whisky Devil, generally known as the Rum Demon, will then get to work. He will want to know why the favorite potations of devotees of Gambrinus and Bacchus should be sanctioned while the drink that was the historic stimulus of the pioneers of America, the morning eye-opener, the appetizing cocktail, and the soothing nightcap of the he-men of the country are outlawed.

The Whisky Devil has some able adherents, and unless he has lost much of the cunning with which he was formerly credited, may pull the strings of politics to some purpose in the course of years. OLD SOAK.

Free-Flowing Liquor Incompatible With Automobiles and Airplanes, People Will Not Tolerate Saloons.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. I. G. Michael has expressed the sentiment of the law-abiding people of America. The majority of the people do not want the liquor traffic. It is the money made in the traffic that causes the urge to get it back. We can not have free-flowing liquor with the automobiles and airplanes we now have. No one would be safe anywhere. We have examples of it now. Nearly all the crimes are committed under the influence of liquor, and would not be committed otherwise. I have lived in the day of the saloons. I know how the wages of the poor man went to the saloon, while the wife and family went without food and clothing.

The people will decide this thing, and they will not tolerate saloons, in my opinion. D. J. H.

Vandalism at Meridian Hill Park Destroying Beautiful, Cascade—Attention, Col. Grant!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the most promising beauty spots in our wonderful city is Meridian Hill Park, with its cascade and reflecting pool, but it may be ruined by the many vandal frequenters. Park privileges are being horribly abused in many ways. The large reflecting pool and the many small pools that constitute the main portion of the cascade are being filled with trash of every description—newspapers, tin cans, bottles, cheap ice cream spoons, and the like. This wanton mischief should not be tolerated for one moment. It keeps the better class of people away from that otherwise alluring spot. Can not something be done by those in authority?

VOX POPULI.

"Virginia Democrat" Declared to Be Neither Virginian Nor Democrat.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I observe that "Virginia Democrat" is sputtering again in the morning paper. I wish this man had the candor to sign his name, or get some other nom de plume. I would suggest that he sign himself "Half Cocked."

I protest the privileges extended to this person. His sentiments are neither Democratic nor Virginian. It is a reflection on the great State to permit such things under that name to be published.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

PASSING GREETINGS.

As Bill and I go riding 'round the roads that line the Thumb
We like to wave a friendly hand to all who go or come;
To farmers busy in their fields, the women in the yards,
We toss a greeting blithe and gay to give them our regards.
And some there are wave back at us in much the self-same way,
And some so solemn at their tasks,
immovable they stay.

For miles and miles in Michigan we roam the country o'er,
And every farmhouse seems to have a mother near the door.
With hollyhocks and dahlias bright
the little gardens glow
And always there are marigolds to make a pretty show,
But old men sitting in the sun and women worn and gray
Seem glad to get a friendly wave from those who pass their way.

"And what's the odds," says Bill to me, "if churlish men we spy,
Who will not wave a hand to us as we go rushing by?
We cannot guess the cares they face,
nor all their doubts and fears,
The eyes that seem so dull to us may still be dim with tears.
We'll wave to all along the road unto the journey's end,
That someone very lonely there may know he has a friend."

NEW RAY BRIGHTENS CANCER CURE HOPES

Mouse Is Killed by Flash of Beta Beam, Product of X-Ray.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Aug. 19.—A new beta ray so powerful that a flash of it lasting only one ten-thousandth of a second caused the death of a mouse will be toned down at the University of Berlin for experiment on cancer.

Details about the remarkable nature of this ray were explained today by Arno Bransch, who, with Fritz Lange, has constructed a 5,000,000 volt X-ray tube that gives the beta radiation.

Beta rays are streams of electrons, one of three kinds of radiation ordinarily obtained from an X-ray tube. The other two are alpha particles, which are heavy nuclei of helium atoms and gamma rays.

Only the latter are used in treating cancer. Both X-rays and radium emit these gamma rays, which are immaterial like light, and penetrate deeply into the body.

Depth of Penetration.

Beta rays do not penetrate so deeply. But Dr. Brasch says the beta stream loosed by the enormous voltages on the big tube suggest possibilities worth experimenting with.

These big tube rays penetrate deeply, he said, as compared with previously produced rays of the same kind. He did not give the exact measurements of penetration.

One of the effects of X-rays is to cause secondary beta radiation to be set up in the area where the X-rays strike, their impact releasing electrons from the atoms in the immediate region. But with these more penerating beta rays Dr. Brasch thinks there will be opportunities to try out more thoroughly than heretofore the effect of direct application.

"This beta treatment," he said, "requires one ten-thousandth of a second, against several hours required by X-rays. A mouse struck by a single beta discharge of ten raised to the minus fourth power (one ten-thousandth of a second), at a distance of 100 centimeters from the generating source, died several days later.

Tumorous Growth.

"Tumorous growths of various animals at depths where penetration of beta rays was possible, were checked or absolutely healed without damaging the fur.

"Highly developed cultures were killed by three to four discharges.

"The experiments will probably become increasingly interesting as voltages are raised, giving greater intensity and velocity."

Inquiry among American cancer experts brought information that experiments on cancer with available beta rays had brought no useful results. While most of these beta rays have been from tubes of much lower voltages than the new German apparatus, one natural element, thorium, gives off such raya rated at 4,500,000 volts. The thorium emits them in comparatively small quantities.

Waters Planning New Bonus Camps

B.E.F. Leader Has National Scheme for Rehabilitation of Veterans.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—From the seclusion of a New York hotel room, where he is resting up from the recent bonus army troubles, Walter W. Waters, leader of the B. E. F., is evolving a scheme of Nation-wide rehabilitation camps for veterans.

Waters' aids told about the new plans today in denying reports he had lost interest in the cause and was on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Waters' announced plans for a national tour to "tell what really happened in Washington" have been sidetracked while he plunges into his new work. Where the first camps would be was not disclosed.

"We would have 10,000 men marching there tomorrow, if we did," said Thomas N. Jarrell, of Washington, chief adviser and roommate of Waters.

Explorer Photographs Piece of Noah's Ark

London, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Carveth Wells, explorer and lecturer, who has just arrived from Russia, said today he had found and made movies of a supposed piece of Noah's Ark. The relic is held sacred and never before was beheld by a layman and never by any woman except Mrs. Wells, former lecturer promotor in America, who talked the venerable Archbishop of Memrop into permitting her to see it.

The fragment is concealed in an ancient Armenian church in the tiny village of Echmiazin on the borders of Turkey and Armenia. Wells undertook the expedition for the Chicago Geographical Society.

London Mercury at 99, One Degree Under Mark

London, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Londoners, to whom a tempearture of 75 degrees Fahrenheit is hot weather, sweltered in one of the greatest heat waves in English history today but, with British tenacity, clung generally to their waistcoats and heavy woolen clothing. Out of 50 men counted on the Strand this afternoon, only one had removed his vest.

At 3 p. m. the thermometer mounted to 99, just 1 degree under the London record for all time, set in August, 1911. All western Europe suffered from the same amazing wave of heat. In Paris 95 degrees were registered, the hottest day since 1923.

"Liquidation" of Soviet Churches Is Reported

Vatican City, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—"Liquidation" of all but twenty churches, chapels and houses of prayer in Soviet Russia was said by the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano today to have been ordered in a secret decree issued by the Soviet government.

The "liquidation" must be completed by December 31, 1933, the newspaper stated, adding that it had learned of the decree from "excellent authority." After that date provision rules would be made by which a number of houses of prayer "will be tolerated for a certain period."

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

In Matter of Suntan, as in All Things, Screen Stars Show Individuality.

AT the very beginning of the summer this column predicted that "to tan or not to tan" was a matter for individual choice. I noticed at a gathering of screen stars that these luminaries follow the dictates of their own inclinations, thereby establishing and enhancing their individuality.

Joan Crawford, our typical American darling, can flirt with the sun to her heart's content, with no more harm to her complexion than the sunflower's. Though she has a few adorable freckles, she tans evenly, painlessly, no patches, no discolorations; just a smooth, even tan that hundreds would give thousands to acquire. But few are as fortunate as "Our Joan."

Leila Hyams is another star who allows her beauty to take on a bronze hue. You would expect her to be the blonde, feminine type, with a very fair complexion the year round. But Leila surprises you; lives at Malibu and spends much of her time fishing on the barge, which seems all out of character. More surprises. This good-natured, lovely personality, one of the best-liked girls on the lot, has very individual beauty rites, cuts her own hair, shampoos it and goes out in the sun, uses very little make-up and combs her eyebrows instead of brushing them.

Ruth Chatterton lives at Malibu too, but doesn't seem to tan much. Her pink and white complexion is mute evidence of much cream and bleaches. Calm, well-poised, dignified, no matter what she wears on the sands, on the set she is always well groomed. A truly feminine type of beauty. Some of her secrets are two or three quarts of milk a day, plenty of undisturbed sleep, and, while on a picture, she keeps looking her best by shutting herself off from all society and lives on the lot.

Marion Davies is covered with freckles, which give her a young, piquant air. She doesn't mind them a bit (the freckles, I mean).

On the other hand, Helen Twelvetrees dislikes freckles and suntan intensely and uses a pure olive oil or castor oil as a barrier between skin and sun. So—there you are.

Bleaches.

However, with the approach of fall, the bleaching business suffers no depression in Hollywood. As I believe I mentioned in a column recently, the cornmeal and buttermilk bleach is a favorite with many stars. Masques or packs, such as fuller's earth and lemon juice (about two tablespoonfuls of the earth and enough strained lemon juice to form a smooth paste) are also favorites. The skin is first cleansed with cleansing cream, then sponged with tonic, then the masque applied and allowed to dry or "set." This is removed with lukewarm water, then the skin massaged with a good nourishing cream or skin food, and the treatment finished by patting once more with tonic and an ice rub, before make-up is applied.

My bulletins, "Freckles" and "Masques" both give delightful bleach recipes. Send stamped, return envelope for them.

What Today Means to You

"LEO."

IF August 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:15 a. m. to 9:25 a. m., from noon to 2:45 p. m. and from 6 p. m to 8:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 3:10 p. m. to 5 p. m.

August 20 will be a day begun with promises and finished with regrets. There will be too many "ifs" to make the "what-might-have-beens" realities for the average person. Horoscopical indications, however, point to a successful hazard of some kind and it would be advisable to take a dare.

The child born on this August 20 will have a forceful and attractive personality, free from affectation. It will have qualities of leadership, and will strive to excel in its studies and work. It will be a trifle short-tempered, but will not have a revengeful nature.

Born on August 20 you are visionary and not practical. You feel yourself capable of solving all the problems of life, but have never succeeded in solving your own. If you could only take a common sense view of your situation, devote your thoughts and attention to the duty just ahead of you—in other words, get on to your job—you would have success within your grasp.

You are a good and interesting talker as you have read much, and possess a retentive memory as well as the gift of expression. You can, if you so desire, work intelligently if and when you concentrate. You are not lacking in charm and personality, although you frequently bore listeners by expounding your views on everything and everybody. You know a remedy for everyone's ills—except for your own.

Your disposition is agreeable and your nature a kindly one. You do not economize unless compelled to do so. You are not sensitive, and have a limited sense of humor. You enjoy laughing at others, but resent it when they laugh at you. If mated with one born in May or December, you are assured felicity and harmonious companionship.

Successful people born on August 20:

Poincare, former French president.
Samuel L. Mitchell, scientist.
Valentine Mott, surgeon.
James J. Jarves, art critic and author.
Benjamin Harrison, 23d president of the United States.
Edward C. Butler, diplomat and author.

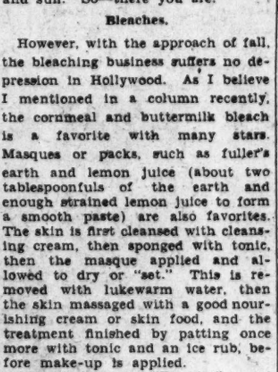
BIDDING FREAK HANDS.

THE proper way in which freak hands should be bid is a question which arises too frequently. Actually, there is only one answer to such a question—no set of rules can be laid down that will govern the bidding of freaks. Each one requires a special treatment of its own, and the greatest experts in the country would be likely to make a different bid on the same type of freak in exactly the same situation, were it possible for one of these hands to reappear.

Mr. James A. Dixon, of Miami, Fla., sends me the following hand and wants to know how I would go about avoiding the disaster which overtook the East player.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding.

South	West	North	East
3♠	Pass	5♠	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

North and South, of course, made six spades easily. Mr. Dixon contends that the five spade Double was a Takeout Double and that West should have bid six clubs. It is illogical to consider any Double of a five-bid as made for Takeout purposes, but in this particular instance the West player might have realized that his partner was desperately urging him to bid, as otherwise he would have waited for the South player to bid six before doubling.

West might have reason that his partner's strength must be enormous to justify any such proceeding and consequently might have bid six clubs on this reasoning. However, East held another weapon at his command, which he could have made use of had he felt in a gambling mood. Incidentally, it is impossible to attain successful results on freak hands unless a certain amount of gambling is indulged in.

East could have bid five notrump—a Forcing bid compelling West to show his best suit. Admittedly, this is a very dangerous bid, but again North and South were undoubtedly able to score a game or a Slam and rather desperate measures were required. In this particular case, the result would have been more than satisfactory as it requires only a glimpse of the East-West hands to see that seven clubs can be made with only one finesse. Had North and South cared to, they could then have gone to seven spades, which can be defeated only one, but at least the East-West players would have obtained their maximum on the hand.

Today's Pointer.

Freakish hands—that is, those which have long holdings in one suit and possibly a void in another—present their own peculiar problems in the bidding. When the bidding discloses such holdings, the player should realize that on such deals the ordinary laws governing distribution have been annulled, and that the unusual, for the time being, has become the commonplace.

Ancient Marine Relics Unearthed by Campers

Youthful explorers vacationing at Camp Letts, Md., summer resort of the Y. M. C. A., yesterday unearthed the bones of a whale and several huge shark teeth, believed to be at least 20,000,000 years old.

The discovery was made near the banks of the Rhodes River, on which the camp is located. The boys added their discoveries to a natural history museum, which has been established in a clearing near the camp.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Brilliant velvet bands, and a more subdued purple triple tulle, fashion an evening gown of allure and grace. (A Dahray design).

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The house of Worth has sounded the death knell of the beach pajama—finish out the summer if you will, but Palm Beach next January will have none of your beach pajamas, m'dear!

The coat dress will be the ultra elegant thing to wear over your bathing suit—or a dress-wrap affair with a wrap-around skirt. In the new collection of this famous house, one especially popular beach ensemble for the coming season is a dark blue bathing suit with a dark brickish red shantung coat-dress to wear with it.

Speaking of red—were we? Well, reds in darker shades are predicted for this winter by the new collection of this house. Especially the "dregs of wine" shades—a coat in this lovely shade in velvet has been sponsored by two of the smartest Parisiennes. The red velvet hats shown at the Grande Semaine in June, those of Agnes and Gaby Mono, are said to be responsible for this popularity of red for the coming season.

• • • •

White is surely the queen of evening colors—and holding sway, refuses to budge an inch in its popularity. This, and the fact that more and more evening coats are not matching the gown with which they are worn, is the news in evening chatter.

• • • •

The most adorable beaded coiffure jewelry is being seen for evening wear! I sketched some of them for you today—note how delicate and whimsical they all are—none of your diadems of autrefois! And see, too, how some very sophisticated damsels are wearing their hair long and curled to the shoulders, in quite, quite schoolgirlish fashion!

• • • •

There is one slick way to make pajamas, so that they fit and flare as they should, are not baggy or bulky, and take the least amount of material. And there is one pajama blouse that is my absolute and indisputable favorite—you just come back and back to it, that's all, styles regardless.

Well, these two articles, making one lounging pajama—are what I decided to tell you how to, make in this week's illustrated leaflet. Thinking that you would send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for it just to see how they were made—putting the leaflet aside if you didn't want to make 'em now—remembering Christmas coming on apace. Well, what do you say?

• • • •

Dregs of wine, that new dark red shade—is purple, you know. You may hear it called purple, in fact.

But the color itself is lovely—and to that you must pay some attention. That color, and a little velvet, and you have the whole story of autumn loveliness and chic and allure—well, no, you have to look to the evening gown I designed for you today for the allure, to be sure.

Triple tulle, and brilliant velvet bands—and the odd and picturesque decolletage—and the way of the skirt—all make it what it is. You would wear a matching velvet evening coat in three-quarter length with this, or one in a subtle, harmonizing garnet red.

Au revoir!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

THE SCALDED FOLK.

THE writer, after several hours' observation on the street cars, saw a considerable number of sunburned people, as well as many who were tanned. Some of the burned were suffering from blisters; in some, the skin had a peculiar, almost blistered appearance due to small collections of serum; but most of the injured skins, while fiery red, were smooth. This was a part of the crop of skin troubles due to exposure during the previous 48 hours. Those of a week earlier showed as areas of peeling.

Many of the sufferers seen are in trouble because they were heedless of consequences. They have been in the same fix more than once and they are suffering now because of thoughtlessness and inability to profit by experience. They were in the sunshine along with others. They stayed because others did or because they were unwilling to be different. In the ascent of man those who failed to profit by experience were wiped out, but, it would seem, not until they had left some progeny.

A number of these burned are suffering because they have heard that much sunlight is good for the constitution, or something. First, let us say it is not good for the skin. Our standards of a good skin are based on skins that have been protected. In elephant circles the skin that excites admiration is one that is very coarse, wrinkled, and filled with holes.

In the gorilla world the skin that the population falls for is one that is covered with coarse hair. But the human skin, which is the subject of song and story, and that everybody yearns for, must meet standards that are not compatible with exposure. It is unreasonable to expect a blistering, burning process, bad enough to cause a man to shed like a snake, to improve the quality of the skin.

Nor is tanning good for the skin texture. There are some who realize that prolonged exposure to sun and wind harms the skin, but they expose themselves in spite of that because they think they are building up the constitution and benefiting the general health. Sunlight is a valuable medicine.

It is also a strong medicine. Given in proper doses to those who need it, sunlight is better than any medicine that was ever put in a bottle. There is no quarrel with the use of sunlight in proper doses. The quarrel is with those who say, in effect: "Fifteen drops of this medicine cured Charlie, but he was sick several days. I will drink a bottle of it and get well quick." Or, "Henry was sick. He took this medicine and was cured. I, too, am sick. My disease is not the same as his, I know, but if it was good for him I want to try it."

ULCERS IN MOUTH.

H. F. M. writes: 1. I am deficient in white blood corpuscles. What shall I do to increase the number?

2. I have had considerable trouble with white ulcers in my mouth ever since childhood. My mother had this trouble and my children also have it. I am 50 years old. What causes this condition and what must I do to prevent its recurrence and what shall I do to correct it after it has developed?

REPLY.

1. If you are free from symptoms other than those given, my guess is that you have as many white blood corpuscles as you need and you should do nothing.

2. I judge you and your family are subject to aphthous ulcers, also called stomach ulcers. Application of some caustic to each ulcer stops the pain and the ulcer promptly heals. To prevent others from coming the diet, the eating habits and the bowel habits—one or all—need to be changed materially. No other treatment is called for.

FAT FOR WOMEN.

R. P. W. writes:

1. Is it a fact that nature provides women with a covering of fat as a protection, and is this the reason they get heavier as they grow older?

2. I am 40. Is exercise at my age harmful?

REPLY.

1. It is true that fat under the skin is a protection against chilling due to exposure. This is true of both sexes. It is a contributing factor in obesity, regardless of sex.

2. No. On the contrary, women of 40 should be exceptionally attentive to exercise.

Knox today to supply records subpenaed by the Federal Trade Commission on October 3, 1928, in connection with an investigation into public utilities corporations. The subpena duces tecum was issued under authority of a Senate resolution directing the investigation into utilities corporations doing business in interstate commerce.

Judge Knox held that, although the Electric Bond & Share Co. may not itself have been engaged in interstate commerce, its subsidiaries have been so engaged, and accordingly bring Electric Bond & Share within the scope of the investigation.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THAT GARNER-SMITH CONFERENCE.

SECRETARY—There's a man outside with bushy eyebrows who wants to see you.

Al—Tell him we don't want any bushy eyebrows today.

Secretary—He says he had an appointment.

Al—What's his name?

Secretary—I think he said Garner.

Al—Garner? Garner? Where have I heard that name before? Wasn't there a man here the other day to look at a suite named Garner?

Secretary—We have no suite named Garner.

Al—Garner? Garner? Oh, now I remember him; in fact I can never forget him.

Secretary—Shall I show him up?

Al—If you don't I will!

(The secretary tells Mr. Garner to enter.)

Texas Jack—Good morning, Al.

Al—Mr. Smith to you.

Texas Jack (turning up his coat collar). Brr-r-r-r.

Texas Jack—Telephone?

Al—Yeah. Are you answering it now and then?

Texas Jack—I always answer the telephone when I'm in.

Al—You're not in much on hectic June nights, I take it.

Texas Jack—I don't just get you, Al.

Al—It's funny. I telephoned you from Chicago two months ago and I don't get you until this minute. The service is terrible.

* * * *

Texas Jack—Al, I'm sorry about that phone call. I had just run out a minute.

Al—Run out is right! I couldn't have put it any better myself.

Texas Jack—As soon as I came back I tried to answer, but the operator said you had canceled the call.

Texas Jack—McAdoo?

Al—Yeah. I thought maybe he was with you.

Texas Jack—I haven't seen him in a long time.

Al—If you see him give him my worst regards.

* * * *

Texas Jack—Now, Al, I came here to see if we couldn't get your support for the Democratic national ticket this year.

Al—Who's running this year?

Texas Jack—Haven't you heard?

Al—I heard but the names escape me.

Texas Jack—Mr. Roosevelt and I are the candidates.

Al—Now it all comes back to me!

Texas Jack—Put your party first, Al, and forget personalities. I offer you the pipe of peace.

Al—I'm not smoking. And by the way.

Texas Jack (putting on a raccoon coat)—What?

Hoover Approves Tariff Revisions

Several Domestic Industries Are Affected by Body's Findings.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday approved a Tariff Commission finding reducing the duty on sheeps-wool sponges to 22½ per cent ad valorem. The rate had been 30 per cent. The domestic industry is centered off the Florida coast.

At the same time the President approved a commission report specifying a compound duty of 20 per cent ad valorem and 2½ cents per pound on inedible gelatin, glue, glue size and fish glue. The specific part of the duty will thereby be increased by one-half cent per pound and the ad valorem part decreased by 5 per cent.

Most of the inedible gelatin and glue is used in the manufacture of photographic film in Rochester, N. Y.

Mercury Dip Presages Fall's Coming in West

Kansas City, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A breath of autumn, presaging the end of the long, hot part of the summer, touched Southwestern States today and extended generally over the Mid-west grain belt. Thoughts turned to blankets and furnace repairs early today as temperatures dropped to chilly levels.

At Emporia, Kans., the minimum was 48 degrees, and Tulsa, Okla., reported 56. The weather was cool from the Texas Panhandle to Winnipeg.

Vines, Allison In Final at Newport

National Champion Is Victor Over Jones in Five Sets.

Mangin Bows After Gruelling Match to Texas Star.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Hard-pushed favorites in the Newport Casino annual invitation tennis singles tournament rallied at the last in the semifinal round today and came through to win to the final bracket.

Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Calif., top-seeded and ranked first nationally, dropped his first two sets before settling down to win the next three and defeat Davey Jones, of New York, unseeded, by scores of 3—6, 10—12, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4.

Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., second-seeded, was pushed to four sets to eliminate Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., eighth-seeded, 7—5, 6—4, 8—10, 10—8. Allison and Vines will meet in the finals tomorrow.

The unseeded Jones, former Columbia University basketball star, who has been upsetting seeded entrants throughout the tournament, theratened once more today, but Vines, who has not been up to his usual form all week, pulled the match out of the fire with a brilliant rally.

Giant New Yorker In Front.

The giant New Yorker was leading two sets to one at intermission, took the first two games of the fourth set and seemed headed for the final round when Vines recovered surprisingly and won the next six games, evening the match. He broke Jones' service in the fifth and seventh games.

Vines found himself no match for Jones in the driving back court game on which both depended in the early stages of the match. The powerful Jones was getting length and pace on his drives which kept the American tennis ace constantly on the defensive. Vines changed his style about the middle of the match and turned loose with a barrage of baffling chop strokes, which, on the slippery, rain-soaked court, turned the tide against Jones.

Jones tried too hard for aces on his service and the result was erratic, though at times brilliant. He scored several aces, three on second serves, but double-faulted ten times.

Allison's steady game turned back Mangin, who contributed an exhibition of sterling net play. In the third set Allison started off by winning the first two games but Mangin prolonged the match by a brisk rally, featuring opportune dashes to the net for well-placed smashes. He won the next five games on these tactics. Allison then bore down but Mangin finally won the set at 10—8. Another Mangin rally in the fourth and last set threatened to push the match to five sets but Allison fell back on his steady, driving game and won out at 10—8.

Carnera Stops Gagnon In First; Fans Boo

Tiverton, R. I., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, scored a one-round knockout over Jack Gagnon, of Boston, tonight after only one minute and 35 seconds of fighting.

A crowd of 5,000 persons hooted while Gagnon lay on the mat after a stiff right under the heart. The Boston battler failed to make any attempt at an offensive and the only blows struck were by Carnera.

Gagnon, apparently in pain, was given first aid treatment in the center of the ring while the crowd booed. Carnera stood with a surprised look on his face until he was announced the victor.

2 U. S. GIRLS, 2 BRITISH ADVANCE

Jacobs, Ridley, Pittman, Babcock Are Semifinalists.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Two British girls and a 20-year-old American star, battled their way to victory today to join Helen Jacobs in the semifinals of the women's national tennis championships at the West Side Tennis Club.

Joan Ridley and Mrs. Elsie Goldsack Pittman, ran the union jack to the top of the stadium ramparts with well-earned triumphs over a pair of American opponents, and Carolyn Babcock, of Los Angeles, assured Uncle Sam full representation in tomorrow's round by completing a conquest of the veteran, Mrs. L. A. Harper, begun the previous day.

Miss Jacobs, tournament favorite, already had assured herself a berth in the semifinals by turning back Mrs. John Van Ryn, before yesterday's rain set in.

Mrs. Pittman advanced without undue effort with a 6—3, 6—2 victory over blonde Mary Greef, of Kansas City, but her compatriot, Miss Ridley, was extended to the limit to dispose of Mrs. Marjorie Morrell Painter, of Dedham, Mass., 3—6, 8—6, 6—4. Only the English girl's staying qualities enabled her to pull the match out of the fire after she had dropped the initial set.

Miss Babcock established herself the tournament's "dark horse" by her 6—3 7—5 win over Mrs. Harper, a player of vastly more experience and reputation. Mrs. Harper enjoyed No. 1 national ranking only two years ago and was seeded second in the current tournament.

Weaver, Crowder Face Tribe Today

MANAGER ROGER PECKINPAUGH and his Indians make their final 1932 visit here starting this afternoon, when a double-header will be staged. Five games will be played with the Tribe and they mean much in the young lives of the Nats, who are anything but satisfied with their present fourth-place position and have an opportunity of doing considerable gaining in this set.

In the hope of getting his team off to a fast start and possibly copping both of today's contests, Skipper Walter Johnson will call on two of his best mound bets, Monte Weaver and "General" Alvin Crowder. Orel Hildebrand and Mel Harder are expected to burl for the Tribe.

Capital's Net Stars Win And Lose

Mitchell Triumphs to Gain Semifinal at Louisville.

Mrs. Martinez Bows to Gotham Player in Two Sets.

Special to The Washington Post.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 19.—Banging the old tennis ball with furious forehand drives and backhands that frequently raised white dust from the sidelines, Dooley Mitchell, Washington, D. C.'s, first seeded player in the national public parks tennis championship reached the semifinal round today, as Mrs. Ruth Martinez, the Capital's woman representative, lost to Helen Germain, of New York, in the semifinals, 6—3, 6—3.

Mitchell routed aggressive Bob Norton, of St. Louis, 7—5, 6—3, 9—7, in a driving match that left nothing to be desired for sheer hitting on both sides of the net. Norton, one of the gamest fighters in the meet, held leads in the last set but no amount of fight could offset Mitchell's driving during the tight moments.

Mrs. Martinez Steady.

Mrs. Martinez played her same backcourt style of game that caused her to reach the semifinals against Helen Germain, but steadiness was not enough to upset the game of the New Yorker, who got in many telling volleys at critical points. The match developed many long rallies. Tomorrow Miss Germain meets Mrs. Virginia Baer Dueker, of St. Louis, for the championship. Mrs. Dueker won the title when the national tournament was held in Washington, 1930.

Mitchell was joined in the semifinals by the remaining three of the first four seeded players, George O'Connell, of Chicago, who put out Earl Bossong, Cincinnati, 2—6, 6—3, 7—5, 6—0; Ten Drewes, of St. Louis, who put out Weston Painter, Minneapolis, 6—2, 3—6, 3—6, 8—6, 6—1 and Arnold Simmons, Louisville dark horse, who trounced Price Colvin, Baltimore, 6—3, 6—1, 6—2.

Tomorrow Mitchell meets Simon and Drewes plays O'Connell.

Winfree Johnson, of Washington, declined to run again for the Presidency of the National Public Parks, Tennis Association, and Fay Marvin, of Louisville, was elected in his place. Applications for next year's tournament were received from Cleveland, Cincinnati, and New York.

Macks Beat Tribe Twice, 9-7 and 3-2

Philadelphia, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The Athletics defeated Cleveland in both games of a double-header today, 9 to 7 and 3 to 2, to snare three victories out of the four-game series with the rival Indians and strengthen their hold on second place.

The first game was a free-hitting battle while the second was a pitchers' duel between Tony Freitas and Clint Brown that was not settled until the tenth inning when a momentary lapse on the part of Burnett enabled the A's to score the winning run on a fielder's choice. It was Freitas' ninth straight victory.

5,000 WATCH GARIBALDI TRIUMPH

Shouts of "Foul" as O'Shocker Loses in 18 Minutes.

THE ample abdomen of Patrick O'Shocker, a fat man from Salt Lake City, who rassles a great deal, was given a severe butt last night by the cast-iron dome of Gino Garibaldi, and this butt deposited the red-headed Celt in an uneasy heap in the middle of the ball park's agony square and caused quite a few of the faithful 5,000 to shout, "Foul, foul!"

They were referring, incidentally, to the legality of the blow itself and not to the caliber of the show, for the Garibaldi and O'Shocker match was reasonably rough and often scientific during the eighteen minutes it ran. The boys were about evenly matched, with O'Shocker's 222 pounds offsetting the superiority of the smaller man. Both were slammed terrifically hard to the mat, and Garibaldi paid five visits to the infield.

The accident happened (it was an accident, by the way) when Garibaldi aimed a flying butt at O'Shocker. The big Irishman was supposed to jump high in the air, spread out his legs and Garibaldi was to have sailed underneath, rolled over and gone out of the ring.

But 222 pounds are difficult to get anywhere near the stratosphere, and so Patrick was able to jump only about 4 feet. Garibaldi hit him very hard and Pat had to be carried to the undressing room.

Rudy Dusek and Fred Grobmeier put on a good show, which, of course, went to 45 minutes and was terminated by a blast from the timekeeper's whistle. Grobmeier surprised by holding Rudy about even. There was more pure wrestling in this match than was expected, the boys often resembling a couple of guys trying to invent new pretzel designs, so involved did they become with holds rather than socks to the jaw.

In other bouts Lou Plummer beat Jack Zarnos, Frank Brunowicz beat Buck Olsen and Son Jennings threw Floyd Marshall all in 19 minutes and all through the medium of body slams.

O'Shocker was treated by the house physician and quickly recovered. The accident did not seem to bother the rest of the rasslers in the dressing room, as they patched up their minor wounds.

Yankees and Tigers Divide in Twin Bill

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Detroit shattered the Yankees' ten-game winning streak today with a 4-to-3 victory in the first game of a double-header, but the league leaders started off again in the second game, pulling out a 6-to-5 decision in the ninth inning.

125 Awaiting Marathon For Title

De Bruyn, Agee and De Mar Favorites in Race Today.

Start at Mt. Vernon at 2 P. M.; Finish at Zero Milestone.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY weary feet, 125 anxious hearts and that many ambitious men will wind down out of the hills of Virginia today into the hot macadam streets of the city in quest of one of the greatest titles in sport, the national A. A. U. marathon title.

The long grind commences at 2 o'clock at Mount Vernon and finishes up about 4:30 o'clock at the Zero Milestone, behind the White House. Three iron-legged veterans of multiple-mile running, Paul DeBruyn, Clarence DeMar and that seasoned youngster, Billy Agee, are almost simultaneously favored to stagger across the finish line ahead of the pack, which includes runners from every section of the country and from Canada.

Of the three public sentiment leans slightly toward DeMar. The gaunt, cadaverous-looking New England printer and Sunday school teacher has been running marathons for a generation. His loose, ambling gait and crudely arranged handkerchief helmet are as much a part of American marathoning as fallen arches. Close to 50, he is reported in great form.

De Bruyn Has Large Following.

DeBruyn has an enthusiastic following. He won the Boston marathon this summer from one of the greatest fields ever collected for this memorable event. He was a favorite to win the Olympic marathon, with pale Paavo Nurmi delegated to the grandstand, but he failed to match strides with that Argentine steel gazelle, Zabala. DeBruyn's cohorts state that he trained to run on a hot day in the Olympic test and it turned out the coldest day of the summer.

Billy Agee is almost a hometown boy in Washington. It was over District streets that he ran into some of his earliest acclaim, back in the days when he had to hustle back to Baltimore after the race to deliver his papers. The course is slightly hilly and this is in favor of the irrepressible Baltimorean, who, overlooking the untried Nurmi, is the best marathoner in the world over a hilly layout.

Mike Lynch to Compete.

And then there will be Mike Lynch, a Canadian delegation, old Bill Kennedy, a group of aspiring youngsters and so on down the line up to and including the clown marathoner, Johnny "Cigars" Connors, who puffs furiously on vile nickel cigars while pounding out 26 miles and those last heart-rending 385 yards.

The race comes down the new Mount Vernon boulevard to Arlington Memorial Bridge, across to Lincoln Memorial, around the speedway, up Fourteenth street to Constitution avenue and down to Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue; on the Avenue to the Capitol, out to eighth and East Capitol, back past the Capitol and down Pennsylvania avenue to the District Building; over through the park to the Ellipse and once around that great oval.

The Ellipse and the Capitol steps seem to be the best places to watch the race from, but the crowning view of all can be had from the Washington Monument.

ROBINS BEAT REDS, TAKE 2D PLACE

6-0 Victory Narrows Cubs' Margin to Two Games.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers overhauled the Pittsburgh Pirates and took second place in the National League today by hanging a 6-to-0 defeat onto Cincinnati while the Bucs were losing to the New York Giants. The defeat of the Cubs put the Robins two games away from the league leaders.

Van Mungo hurled the Dodgers to their fifteenth victory in nineteen starts, limiting the Reds to six hits and allowing only two men to reach third base. Frank O'Doul and Hack Wilson led the Brooklyn attack on St Johnson, each hitting a single and double and batting in two runs.

MONKS STAR WINS FROM FILLIES IN HAWTHORNE FEATURE

Corbett Gets Fast Start On Field

Timorous Wins Place From Tabaku; Foul Claim Denied.

Reveille Boy Winner at Saratoga After Poor Start.

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Ill., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Monks Star, racing with Annie Ormont as the Wood F Axton entry, had no trouble in winning the best race of today's Hawthorne card, the Minnetonka purse, a five and one-half furlongs test for 2-year-old fillies.

Jockey Charlie Corbett had his mount away quickly and led at every post to defeat Ben Creech's Timorous, the favorite, by four lengths eased up. Tabaku finished third a length back of Timorous. Jockey T. Talazer, on Timorous was shut off twice during the short journey and lodged complaints of foul, but the stewards disallowed his claim.

Monks Star ran the distance in 1:07 1-5, and the entry paid $11.90 to win, $3.84 to place, and $2.64 to show.

Reveille Boy Wins at Saratoga.

Saratoga Race Track, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—J. A. Best's veteran route traveler, Reveille Boy, chalked up his second straight local victory in the Champlain Handicap of a mile and one-eighth before a good sized crowd here this afternoon, but his army of backers had many an anxious moment before the result was declared official. A claim of foul was registered by Silvio Coucci, who finished second astride J E Widener's Pari-Mutuel, slight favorite over the winner, but no disqualification was forthcoming.

Reveille Boy scored by two lengths with Laverne Fator in the pilot house, while Pari-Mutuel nosed out Masked Knight for the place. The winner paid 9 to 5 and his time, over a heavy track, was 1:54 3-5. The purse was worth $3,200.

Reveille Boy ran a remarkable race, being turned sideways when the barrier was sprung. He was far back of the field going up the back stretch. Fator got Reveille Boy to running around the bend. The leaders were now laboring and losing ground fast. Reveille Boy circled the field and forged to the front but inside the final furlong he swerved to the inside and Pari-Mutuel, also making his run, was the one to meet whatever interference there was. Blenheim showed fair early foot, but dropped completely out of it in the last quarter mile.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

The bank roll went down to $37.41 yesterday and the code horse was scratched. Today's code is Saratoga, 12, 7, 8, 3, 15, 16, 11, 2, 1, 1.

Today's Bet:

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, AUG. 19.

If you stuck with me today I sent you home all smiles, for Battling On got the nightcap with a $22.00 mutuel.

Tomorrow brings the $10,000 Hawthorne Juvenile, with a bunch of entries, half-dozen of which are evenly matched. The Pons entry probably will rule favorite and, with a break, should win. They will all be leveling and I am going to take a shot at HOPE TO DO, a very quick breaker with No. 1 post position. Will pay off at a big price, too, if in the money, as it seems tonight a limit field is sure to go to the post.

Luck to you, boy, for you need lots of it to gather any kale at Hawthorne. Yours, BILL.

FIRST RACE—LUCILLE K. should run CHUCH B. in the ground and last to win this heat. FAIR IMAGE and CHUCH B. for the other positions.

THIRD RACE—LUCKY JACK to down PIGEON HOLE, with ETIWANDA third.

FOURTH RACE—JOURNEYS END will get down in front if CAMP BOSS and GRAND PRINCE make any mistakes. I like them in the order named.

FIFTH RACE—Must stick to the entry, SUPREME SWEET and PANCHO LOPEZ. MY DANDY is in splendid form and will be favorite. Should be in the money with GOLD STEP to show.

SIXTH RACE—The entry of SWIVEL and PROJECTILE will account for first money if there is not too much crowding in the scramble for positions once the barrier goes up. HOPE TO DO, with the rail and early speed, should be clear of interference. ESSEFF has speed and will have BALLAGRAN to beat for show money.

SEVENTH RACE—Borrow a hat pin and make your own stab. Race could not be a more open one. ANN CLAY, SPUD and BUNCH OF LILLIES may get home.

EIGHTH RACE—Suggest you shoot at the "field," for there's no real reason for trying to select the winner. PETER PETER, BLAMELESS and GALLAHAD seem as good as any.

Stocks Again Close Lower After Rally in Dull Market

Volume of Sales Mounted to 2,166,150 Shares; Gains Canceled.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The stock market again vacillated uncertainly today, but ended the session on a decline rather than an upturn, as it did yesterday, and the decline about canceled yesterday's gains.

It the upswing late yesterday was in anticipation of the overnight announcement of completion of plans for forming the $50,000,000 commodities credit corporation, the bullish force of the announcement was largely spent in that advance.

Stocks were rather actively sold for a time in the last hour, but recovered a point or two from the lowest in the last ten minutes. Trading was very dull during much of the day, but the total turnover reached 2,166,150 shares, or roughly 400,000 more than yesterday's. The net loss in the average of 90 shares was only 6-10 of a point, although some of the leaders were off 1 to more than 3 points.

J. I. Case was down 6 points at the lowest, but closed off only 3¾. Allied Chemical lost 3½ net, and American Telephone, 2¾. Miscellaneous issues off a point or more included Santa Fee, International Harvester, Union Pacific, Westinghouse, and others. Among less active issues, however, there were many small gains, and some of the more active shares held up well, particularly among the specialties.

The weekly mercantile reviews were again cheerful, Dun's regarding the outlook the best in six months, and in some lines the best in two years.

Stocks.

Fluctuating prices finally settled down to a six-tenths decline after a short-lived rally. Sales reached 2,166,150 shares. Losses canceled Thursday's gains.

Bonds.

Steady buying continued to send the market higher. The gain for the day was the best of the summer recovery. Rails led. Sales totaled $14,565,000.

Curb.

Investment in trust securities featured a day of gains on the curb. Quotation changes were small in a turnover of 250,000 shares.

Wheat.

Ebbing enthusiasm for hope of commodity pool aid reacted on wheat. Prices of corn and oats also sagged. Lack of export business contributed to the grain declines.

Cotton.

Early rally was nipped by liquidating and selling. December contracts closed at 7.60. The general market was down 9 to 14 points.

CAPITAL DROPS BACK IN INSURANCE SALES

District Takes 25th Place in Life Policies; July Cut 38 Per Cent.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The District of Columbia receded from fifteenth to twenty-fifth place on the July comparative list of States in the monthly survey of life insurance sales, made public for that month yesterday by the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau of Hartford, Conn.

Local sales for June were 31 per cent behind those of June, 1931, and those for July were 38 per cent under those of July, 1931. Every State showed a decline in comparison with the month a year ago, Nevada again heading the list with the slightest recession of 6 per cent.

In the June comparison, Nevada was the only State revealing an increase of business, one of 7 per cent. Maryland sales were 26 per cent off from those of July last year and Virginia 36 per cent. The total for the entire country was 23 per cent less than that for July, 1931.

District of Columbia sales during the past month had an aggregate value of $3,613,000 and but 34 per cent of the companies doing business here reported gains. Maryland's total was $6,790,000, with 34 per cent of the companies announcing advances. Virginia sales amounted to $4,590,000. 22 per cent of the companies operating in that State reflecting increases.

Pine Lumber Trade in West Gains Nearly 15 Per Cent

Portland, Oreg., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—An increase of nearly 15 per cent in current new business in the Western pine producing area, as compared with the preceding week, was reported by the Western Pine Association today for the week ended August 13.

New business increased 4,465,000 feet; while production was off 2,798,000 feet. Unfilled orders increased 1,765,000 feet. For the year to date orders are about 36 per cent under 1931, and shipments 35 per cent less than a year ago.

CURB RISE FEATURED IN TRUST SECURITIES

Narrow Changes in Prices Mark Turnover of 250,000 Shares.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Fairly widespread buying of investment trust securities today featured an otherwise quiet session of the Curb Market. Transactions totaled 250,000 shares, against 260,000 yesterday, and price changes, while irregular, were confined in most cases to fractions.

Atlas Corporation, which in recent sessions had pushed through to a new 1932 maximum, closed the day at 7, unchanged, but fractional gains were made by Blue Ridge, Goldman-Sachs, Phoenix Securities, United Founders and Shenandoah in fairly heavy turnover.

Irregular price movements featured the utilities. Electric Bond & Share common yielded ⅞, to 22⅝, although both preferred issues were up around 3 points.

Aluminum Co. Pan-American Airways and Swift & Co., among the industrials, advanced in quiet trading, while Deere & Co. reacted a point. Oils were steady.

BOND BUYING SENDS PRICES STILL HIGHER

Gains in Heavy Sales Best of Summer Recovery; Rails Leading.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Reports received by banks that a fairly sizable amount of hoarded currency is gradually coming out of hiding and finding its way into investment securities found further confirmation today in the action of the bond market, which had one of the best advances of the summer recovery.

Transactions totaled $14,565,000 principal amount of bonds, against $12,831,000 yesterday. Railroad liens led the way, advancing from 1 to as much as 10 points for the more speculative securities. These liens were helped by a fresh reminder from E. G. Buckland, chairman of the Railroad Credit Corporation, that present financial remedies give assurance there will be no receiverships among major railroad companies this year.

In the rail group, gains averaged about 2 points. Some of the sharper price increases, ranging from 5 to 10 points occurred in Ann Arbor 4s, Baltimore & Ohio first 4s, Cincinnati Union Terminal 4½s, Erie & Jersey 6s, Lehigh Valley Pennsylvania Consolidated 5s, Louisville & Nashville 4s, Pere Marquette 5s, St. Louis Southwestern 5s, Southern Pacific collateral 4s, Texas Pacific 5s and Western Maryland 5½s.

Foreign governments and municipals were moderately active, with German issues gaining a point or so.

COTTON PRICES SINK ON SELLING DRIVES

December Closes at 7.60, or 9 Points Lower; East Joins Liquidation.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Cotton opened moderately higher today, but failed to hold its gain due to realizing and liquidation combined with some scattered selling promoted by reports of further showers in Texas.

December contracts after selling at 7.77 early, broke to 7.60 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 9 to 14 points.

Wall street houses were among the sellers and there was some selling here for Southern account as well as realizing or liquidation. October contracts which had advanced to 7.61 at the start, broke to 7:44, and March sold off from 7.97 to 7.80, making declines of about 17 points from the early high level.

Announcement of the plans for the Commodities Finance Corporation was regarded as a constructive factor, but it was disappointing to some recent buyers, who believed the pool would be launched on a larger scale.

Liverpool cables said that local and foreign buying in that market had been supplied by hedging and that the labor situation was restricting business in cotton cloths in Manchester. Exports today, 23,598, making 269,017 so far this season.

Copper Sells Lower.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Copper prices have been lowered slightly in the export market, it was reported today in trade circles. The offering price was 5.35 cents.

Salmon Pack in Alaska May Drop Million Cases

Seattle, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The Alaska salmon pack this year was estimated at 4,500,000 cases, compared with an average of 5,400,000 cases, by Henry O'Malley, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, here today. He has just returned from a survey of all Alaska fisheries.

He said the value of the output should be $25,000,000, compared with an average of over $40,000,000.

WHEAT VALUES SAG AS POOL HOPE EBBS

Corn and Oats Also Join Decline; Provisions Cut Prices 5 Cents.

Chicago, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Ebbing of enthusiasm for the newly organized Commodities Finance Corporation accompanied lower prices today for grains.

Disappointment was shown regarding statements that the corporation would not buy big quantities of any commodity. Canadian rural deliveries of wheat, totaling almost three times larger than a year ago, acted as an additional bearish influence.

Wheat closed unsteady at but little above the day's low point, 1¼ to 1¾ under yesterday's finish; corn, ½ to ¾ off; oats, ⅜ to ⅝ down, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

Contributing to the downward trend was persistent lack of export demand for United States wheat, overseas business from North America today being restricted to 600,000 bushels by Canada. Refusal of the Liverpool wheat market to follow advances yesterday on this side of the Atlantic was also a bearish factor.

In contrast with Canadian advices, messages from the American Northwest indicated that domestic farmers were holding their wheat back with surprising tenacity.

Provisions reflected grain weakness, despite upturns of hog values.

TRADE TAKES HEART AS ORDERS INCREASE

Wholesale and Retail Lines Improve on Prices and Collections.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Business in wholesale and retail lines continued to register definite improvement during the past week under a well-sustained sentiment of optimism, the weekly mercantile reviews said today.

"Total business activity appears improved," said Bradstreet's, "particularly in wholesale lines, where inquiries and interest have been unquestionably evident. In some cases larger orders have resulted. Retail trade appears somewhat spotted. An unusually large number of reports mention collections as slightly improved, and this can be taken as an extremely encouraging factor. General business activity is only a little better, but that little is enough to arouse considerable hope."

Dun's reported that steady improvement in business sentiment in all lines is being reflected strongly in a broader buying movement.

"The outlook," this review asserted, "is brighter than at any time in the last six months, and for some branches of activity better than at any time in the last two years. Accompanied by further increases in many commodity prices, well-sustained security markets and a wider but somewhat uneven expansion in general industry, wholesale buying has assumed a quicker pace, with orders reaching peak levels in many instances during the week."

National Credit to Pay Again.

New York, Aug 19 (A.P.).—The National Credit Corporation, which was formed last autumn to assist in advancing money to needy banks, announced today that on August 29, 1932, it would make another payment of 15 per cent to subscribers who furnished the money for its operation.

Tobacco Prices Range Higher.

Tifton, Ga., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Tobacco offerings were light on the Tifton market today, although prices averaged better. The average price paid today was $10.86 per 100 pounds, compared to $10.73 yesterday. The average so far for the week was $10.75.

CAPITAL CITY CROWN AT STAKE

Dixie Pigs Aim to Clinch Honors in Game Sunday.

WITH two titles already decided, the senior and midget, the Capital City League is preparing to ring down the curtain on its tenth consecutive season. The Dixie Pigs, with one victory to their credit, are favored to gain the unlimited championship, winning out over Columbia Heights for that honor.

The junior and insect divisions are the only two still in the throes of regular campaigns. The insects wind up their schedule next week, while the juniors are due to finish their regular campaign a week from Sunday although it now appears that this will be impossible because of postponed games to be played.

Dor-A and the Swann Service teams have forfeited their franchises in the junior loop. Another item of importance to the teams is the executive committee's decision in favor of the Southwest Merchants in their protest of a defeat received at the hands of Mount Rainier last week. The committee met and handed down its decision last night.

The second half title in the insect ranks lies between the Hawks and the Washington Orioles. The Hawks are slightly favored because of their victory last week over the Ben Hundleys, first half champions.

N., Lancaster, British flier acquitted Wednesday of a charge of murder in connection with the death of Haden Clarke, young author, today were turned over to the United States Department of Labor after a brief hearing in Judge H. F. Atkinson's chambers.

James J. Forrester, Labor Department inspector, declined to say what use would be made of the diaries or if a deportation warrant issued more than two months ago against Lancaster would be served. Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix and Lancaster's flying companion for five years, will be given a hearing Monday on a deportation warrant.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

A STRONG wind blowing in from the outfield and three high centerfield flies combined to give Gaylord Anderson the unique experience of catching three outfield flies at home plate. Three Sydney players hit flies high over second base. The ball, driven into the strong wind, was in each case carried back as it fell, eventually landing in Anderson's mitt.

The march of civilization into the strongholds of barbarism has done much to stamp out practices of cannibalism, but in Liberia, West Africa, there still exist remnants of a dreaded secret society—Human Leopards. Members of this band decorate themselves with paints and other ornaments to resemble leopards, attach iron claws to their hands, and lie in ambush for their victims, tearing them to pieces with their claws. Members of the society have been captured, and many now are serving life sentences in prison for their participation in this fiendish rite.

A national cemetery devoted entirely to the graves of soldiers who fought in the Indian wars, their wives and children, is located at Prairie Du Chien, Wis., near the ruins of Fort Crawford. The plot, which is the smallest national cemetery in the United States, is about the size of a city block.

BEATING OF PARENTS CHARGED TO MAN, 29

Two Held Here After Assault; Mother's Refusal to Eat With Girl Blamed.

Because his mother refused to eat with a 16-year-old girl friend, John Varner, 29, of Falls Church, Va., turned on her and beat her severely last night, police charged. When the 57-year-old woman's screams brought the young man's father, Joseph Varner, 60, the son and a companion turned their attack on him.

John Varner and his companion were arrested by Washington police at Fifteenth and K streets last night, where they had gone to meet the girl in the case, police said. They are held on investigation charges here.

Warrants charging Varner with assault with a dangerous weapon, assault with intent to kill, resisting arrest and larceny of an automobile were sworn out in Fairfax County. His companion, named in a warrant as Darrah Stone, 29, of 1760 P street northwest, is accused of assault.

After the alleged attack, police charge, Town Sergt. Paul Herrman, of Falls Church, came to the house and arrested the companion of Varner. Varner, it is said, asked permission to change his shirt. Herrman accompanied him to the room, but instead of taking a shirt from the drawer, the man pulled a pistol and threatened to shoot the officer, holding him at bay until he and his companion escaped.

After the arrest in Washington Varner's companion gave his name as James W. Morton, of Falls Church. Police here said they were wanted for investigation in connection with several housebreakings including the robbery of a Washington drug store, where 300 pints of whisky were taken.

Furlough Applied To Worker in Camp

McCarl Rules Deduction of Pay May Be Made After Notice.

Comptroller General McCarl yesterday ruled in the first test case on the order of the Postoffice Department canceling military leave privileges this year that the pay of an employe, notified while in camp that he was considered as being on legislative furlough, was subject to deduction.

At the same time, however, the Comptroller General reiterated his previous ruling that the right to military leave is absolute and "may not be legally denied." The case which was ruled upon yesterday was that of Burle L. Bell, of West Palm Beach, Fla.

The decision in Bell's case was not thought to be final. It was thought that the matter was one on which the Court of Claims might ultimately have to pass.

Employers Score Insurance Rates

Threaten to Form Own Compensation Firm After Increases.

A threat to form a compensation insurance company because certain companies insuring local contractors had increased rates was contained in a letter sent out yesterday by the Building Trades Employers' Association to its members.

The letter, which was signed by Charles J. Columbus, executive secretary, called the members' attention to the fact that some compensation companies had increased their premium 26.6 per cent.

The members were asked, "will you participate in a movement whereby savings may be realized through affiliation with an existing insurance company or the formation of one?"

5,000 Hear Contralto Sing at Sylvan Theater

Nearly 5,000 persons last night enthusiastically received the summer festival program at the Sylvan Theater featuring the Marine Band and Anne Yago McGuffey, contralto soloist.

Included in the selections given by the woman singer were "Annie Laurie," "O Promise Me," and "Habanera" from Carmen. The programs are under the joint direction of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

'Polite' Policemen and Riot Squad Planned for Capital

Glassford Prepares Movie Showing Courteous Way to Handle Drivers; Machine Guns and Gas Equipment Scheduled for New Anti-Hoodlum Unit.

Police will become more polite to traffic offenders and more harsh to "hoodlums" when plans outlined by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford yesterday become effective.

Plans for an emergency squad, equipped to quell riots with gas bombs, machine guns, shotguns, steel helmets and gas masks contrast with plans for movie productions to show policemen the proper way to handle errant drivers.

The riot squad, which will give 24-hour service, will be headed by Lieut. Harvey G. Callahan, instructor at the police school. Three sergeants and 24 policemen will be trained to quell any disturbance that may arise.

The usefulnes of such an outfit was indicated in the case of the barricaded maniac, Nicholas A. Long, who on July 5, held 100 policemen at bay at his home, 506 First street southeast, and killed Policeman Elmer A. Swanson.

Gen. Glassford explained that the new squad would be called out by the inspector in charge at headquarters. An automobile carrying all necessary equipment would meet members of the squad near the scene of the alarm.

A movie scenario, prepared by Gen. Glassford, will show policemen effective but courteous methods of handling traffic violators.

POLICEMAN'S KILLER IS ADJUDGED INSANE

Long, Who Held 100 at Bay With Rifle, Committed to St. Elizabeths.

Nicholas A. Long, 64-year-old carpenter, who shot and killed Policeman Elmer A. Swanson July 5 before a squad of policemen routed the crazed man from his Southeast home with tear gas, yesterday was adjudged of unsound mind by a lunacy jury in District Supreme Court.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District alienist, said Long is suffering from arterio sclerosis, and is mentally incapable of handling his own affairs. Dr. Hickling, the only witness, based his testimony on three separate examinations, July 14 and 26 and August 17.

Long was committeed to St. Elizabeths Hospital, where he was assigned to Howard Hall, ward for the criminally insane. Yesterday's jury findings still leave Long liable to trial for murder if ever he recovers his sanity, Assistant United States Attorney Julian Richards stated.

The court inquiry was held at the behest of Lucian H. Vandoren, Long's attorney, who said his client was unable to confer with counsel to prepare his defense.

Long held nearly 100 policemen at bay with a rifle early last month when they answered a summons to his home 506 First street southeast. Policeman Swanson was shot and killed before Long was forced into the open by a tear gas bombardment.

Jobless Boy, 18, Given 60 Days on Rum Charge

An 18-year-old youth, James Marion Fordham, 901 Twentieth street northwest, yesterday was sentenced by Judge Ralph Given to pay a $200 fine or serve 60 days on liquor possessing charges. He was alleged to have delivered liquor to a prohibition agent.

Fordham was making deliveries to tide him over a period of unemployment, and planned to give it up the day he was arrested. John Shelby Moehring, 24, 2107 H street northwest, alleged to have driven Fordham to the scene of the delivery, demanded a jury trial on a possession charge.

Man, at Gallinger, Tells of Abduction

Bluemont Horse Trainer Ordered Released by District Justice.

Charging forcible transfer from his Bluemont, Va., stock farms to Gallinger Municipal Hospital, George E. Pflaster, well-known horse trainer, yesterday was ordered released by District Supreme Court Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, following hearing on a habeas corpus petition.

Pflaster told a strange tale of abduction from his Woodside Stock Farms by three men whom he said forced him to come to Washington, where they placed him in Gallinger Hospital. He charged the abduction was instigated by his wife, from whom he is separated.

His counsel was asked to see that he returns to Virginia. No objection was raised by Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins.

RENT PROBE SCOPE WILL BE BROADENED

Building Materials Cost and Milk and Ice Charges to Be Included.

Scope of the Senate District committee's inquiry into Washington rentals will be broadened to include charges for such "pertinent" items as building materials, and even milk and ice, Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, announced yesterday.

Senator King, chairman of the rent investigating subcommittee in the absence of Chairman Arthur Capper, indicated the group also will go into the question of receiverships for local apartment houses.

Following yesterday's executive session of the subcommittee, Senator King said he considered both matters germane to the investigation. He said there have been complaints that more than the necessary number of receivers have been appointed, with excessive compensation. He made it plain that all questions affecting rentals, directly or indirectly, will be delved into.

Oscar H. Brinkman, counsel for the subcommittee, plans to distribute among real estate dealers a questionnaire calling for information on rents and contemplated reductions, he announced, following yesterday's meeting. The questionnaire also will elicit data on ownerships, encumbrances and financing.

The subcommittee will meet again in September 13 or 14, when much time will be devoted to discussion of local alley dwelling problems, Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, who came here from New York to attend yesterday's meeting, announced.

2 Held in Shooting Of Meadows Man

Prince Georges and Capital Police Arrest Pair in Ferguson Wounding.

Two men were arrested yesterday in connection with the shooting of Harvey Ferguson, 25, of Meadows, Md., Wednesday night during an alleged hijacking. Houston Greenworth, 22, of Clinton, Md., was arrested early in the day by Prince Georges County police and taken to the county jail at Upper Marlboro.

Ralph Ignatius Harbaugh, of Washington, was arrested by police of the Third Precinct for county police. Harbaugh was questioned last night by county police but refused to talk. A third man was being sought last night in Washington.

Ferguson was shot in the right shoulder while delivering a load of fifteen cases of alleged liquor to some men who had come to his house and asked him to get some liquor for them, he told county police. As he neared the house, several men jumped on the running board of his car and started shooting, one of the bullets striking him in the shoulder. He was treated by Dr. James I. Boyd, of Forestville, Md. An uncle, Frank Ferguson, accompanied the youth, but was not injured.

Police Tracing Gun In Shinault Slaying

Man Is Reported to Have Loaned Pistol Believed Used in Murder.

A Negro arrested several days ago, yesterday is said to have admitted to police he lent Willie Bullock the revolver which was thought to have been used in the shooting of Policeman George W. Shinault, who was killed when he entered the premises of 73 G street northwest to quell a fight.

Evans Stark, 29, who was arrested in a round-up of all tenants of the G street address, told police the gun was a .32-20 caliber weapon. The caliber corresponds with the bullets which killed Shinault.

Members of the homicide squad are confident Bullock will soon be apprehended. They are watching all of the haunts which the man frequented and are cooperating with police of adjoining States in the search.

Center Site Cost Totals $5,979,655

No Plans in 1934 Estimates for Continuation of Construction.

The District government has paid a total of $5,979,655.85 for the Municipal Center site, Auditor Daniel J. Donovan reported yesterday to the District Commissioners, and yet no provision is made in the 1934 estimates for immediate continuation of the construction.

The cost of the land acquired has been $5,976,433.10, the report reveals, although the assessed valuation of the property was only $4,382,417. The percentage of assessment paid by the District is consequently 149 per cent.

Certificates of title have cost $3,090, and recording fees have amounted to $132.75.

3 HELD IN MYSTERY ATTACK ON WOMAN

Girl, 14, and 2 Men Will Be Questioned as Matron Is Found Lashed.

Two men and a 14-year-old girl were being held yesterday for questioning in connection with the finding of Mrs. Lucille Leslie Silver, 25, 2423 North Capitol street, in the woods near Glen Echo, in an unconscious condition and bearing marks of a severe lashing.

Mrs. Silver was found yesterday afternoon by two men working in the vicinity following a report that she had been murdered. Removed to Georgetown Hospital, she told an incoherent story of being assaulted and beaten by two girls and three men. She was said to be suffering from shock as well as a number of welts on her right side, which apparently were inflicted by a lash.

William M. Combs and Frank Boswel, of Glen Echo Heights, discovered the unconscious woman lying face downward on an embankment off Conduit road. They removed her to the hospital and notified police, who had been searching for her.

Esther May Dodson, 14, who gave her address as 1209 K street northwest, told police that she was in the company of Mrs. Silver and two men Wednesday night and that the party drove to a house on Conduit road following a purchase of some ginger ale in Washington. Mrs. Silver, she said, took a drink and then ran out of the house.

Two men who gave their names as John Tucker, 29, of 1438 G street southeast, and Arthur E. Turgeon, 24, of 3710 Twenty-fourth street northeast, were being held for questioning. They were said by Miss Dodson to be the two who accompanied her and Mrs. Silver.

Miss Dodson was held at the Women's Bureau until Mrs. Silver recovers sufficiently to relate how she had been injured.

Police were called to search for Mrs. Silver when Mrs. Hunter Swann, with whom Mrs. Silver was rooming, received a telephone call from an unknown person who said Mrs. Silver had been slain.

Policeman Cleared In Death of Youth

Ignatius Connole, 35, of White House Force, Is Released.

A coroner's jury yesterday absolved White House Policeman Ignatius Connole, 35, of blame in the killing of a 15-year-old colored boy, who Connole shot when he discovered him prowling around his home at 214 Seventeenth street northeast, early yesterday.

The verdict returned by the jury held the shooting was in self defense and in the line of duty. Policeman Connole stated that he fired the shot when he saw the boy reach for his hip pocket, as if to draw a gun. The boy was taken to Casualty Hospital and removed from there to the morgue where he was identified as Charles Young, 116 Sixteenth street northeast, by his father.

Connole had been held at the Ninth Police Precinct pending the inquest. Two neighbors, who assisted him in chasing the prowler, testified at the inquiry.

Marine Band to Visit Exhibition at Ottawa

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams has accepted the invitation of the Minister for Canada, William D. Herridge, for the United States Marine Band to visit the Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa next week as guests of the exhibition.

Capt. Taylor Branson, leader, with 75 members of the band, will leave Washington tomorrow afternoon for Ottawa.

Club Hears Talk By Fire Marshal

Calvin G. Lauber Cites Smoking Dangers to Kiwanians.

Fire Marshal Calvin G. Lauber, of Washington, was principal speaker yesterday at the third annual firemen's meeting of the Manassas, Va., Kiwanis Club. Edwin F. Hill, president of the Washington Club, and Edwin H. Etz, also of the Washington Club, were guests.

"Little Things That Start Big Fires," was the subject of Mr. Lauber's talk. He blames smoking for most of the fires, and said that little could be done about preventing it except through the cooperation of newspapers and clubs in spreading fire prevention propaganda.

The most dangerous home hazards he listed as painters' cloths and floor mops. Strangely enough, he said, oil rags in garages did not cause fires, but added fuel to them once they were started. The gases released from burning movie films made them one of the most dangerous fire hazards, he said.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

COLUMBIA

"ISLE OF PARADISE." Adolph Polak presents Charles T. Trego's pictorial record of life on the Island of Bali. Directed and photographed by Mr. Trego. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Wholly devoid of any attempt to identify characters or present the slightest continuity of narrative, this colorful subject is in essence a glorified travelogue, dealing discreetly and entertainingly with the daily lives, religious rites and simple diversions of a picturesque and little known people.

The Balinese, as Mr. Trego represents them through the eye of his camera, are artists, lovers of the beautiful, intensely ritualistic and sufficiently industrious to supply the needs of a tranquil existence in one of the world's most opulent gems of the sea. Their mode of living is distinctly primitive, but a very far cry indeed from savagery and reflective of a civilization in which love of the simpler arts is inherent and traditional ceremonials deeply ingrained.

The most impressive sequence in the "Isle of Paradise" is that devoted to the most profoundly moving of the island's religious festivals—the cremation of the dead. There is nothing funereal in this protracted celebration of the passing of the spirit into eternity. On the contrary, the observance takes on something the aspect of an Olympiad, with cock fights, bull races, rhythmic dances, water sports and gastronomic marathons as the successive pieces de resistance of the involved ritual to which the natives adhere with such admirable devotion.

The pomp attending the cremation of the bodies of the deceased is of truly Oriental impressiveness and grandeur. The funeral pyres are towering structures of ornate design and rich embellishment, built at great expense of time and labor, only to be consumed in a few moments' spectacular conflagration. As much pother is made over the ashes as over the dead themselves before the torch is touched to the tinder-like towers.

Unlike any sport ever before pictured by visiting Occidentals is the bull racing, which seems to represent a happy combination of our own running, trotting and circus chariot races!

Cultivation of the rice fields, terraced in imposing paddies; the flying of some of the most bizarre of giant kites; sportive pastimes in the "old swimmin' hole, marvels of natural beauty; market days and home activities of the Balinese women, undisturbed by sartorial problems of any consequence; symbolic dances, obeisance to the rajah and numerous other distinctive "shots" speak volumes for Mr. Trego's sagacious selection of subjects for his major scenes and his skill in picturing them with no loss of exotic effect.

A Felix the Cat cartoon, "Sure Lock Holmes," not to be numbered among the bills' superlatives; an "Intimate Interview" with Walter Huston, by Dorothy West; a song novelty, "The Old Family Album," and the picturized news events complete a program to which the running comment by David Ross, famed for his "Coral Islanders" on the radio, adds an illuminating and poetic touch.

LOEW'S FOX

"SPEAK EASILY." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the story, "Footlights," by Clarence Budington Kelland, starring Buster Keaton, with Jimmy Durante, Thelma Todd and Ruth Selwyn. Directed by Edward Sedgwick. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

A new policy was inaugurated at Loew's Fox yesterday, and last night's audience was howling for more when the picture ended and again when the curtain closed on the last act of the vaudeville.

"Speak Easily" is a series of hilarious comedy cocktails poured from a shaker by Buster Keaton, Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante, Thelma Todd, William Pawley and Henry "Tony" Armetta, each cocktail containing a generous portion of the comedy spirits of this quintette. The result is 80 minutes of intoxication for the patrons with no aspirin required at the finish, for all the headaches have been laughed away.

Prof. Post, aloof and studious, believes he has inherited $750,000. He starts out to learn life and in the course of his journey meets a show troupe, stranded and broke. He volunteers to take the cast to New York and put on the performance. His adventures as a Broadway "angel" form the basis for most of the fun, the high spots of which are the opening night's performance and Thelma Todd's efforts to marry the $750,000. Mr. Keaton is Prof. Post.

Jimmy Durante has a swell role as the comedian of the show; Henry Armetta, another member of the cast, is as humorous as usual; William Pawley gives a dandy touch to the part of the production manager, but aside from Keaton Miss Todd takes the cake.

Herb Williams took first place on the vaudeville program. With his trick bathing suit, the piano which falls apart and a crew of "conspirators" who seek constantly to "ruin his act" he keeps his audience near hysterics from start to finish. One of Anatole Friedland's miniature revues, "Show Boat," headed by Marty May and Jean Carroll, ran second in popularity. Some fine male vocal numbers and a number of excellent specialties by the girls of the ensemble add immeasurably to the smart comedy of Mr. May and Miss Carroll.

Owen Moore, long associated with the films, is present in person with a well done motion picture skit. The bill is opened by Karoli and Swanson in balancing and juggling.

Phil Lampkin and the Fox Orchestra scored with the overture, "Orpheus." A brief issue of the Fox Movietone News completes a bill that is a sure cure for depression.

EARLE

"WAR CORRESPONDENT." Columbia Pictures filmization of a story by Keene Thompson, featuring Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Lila Lee. Directed by Paul Sloane. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Into the thick of the fray in China, torn between the fires of civil war and banditry, goes "War Correspondent," a sort of glorified reporter and radio spieler rolled into one, to bring to the screen a story of journalism's foreign service the identity of whose titular character is indeed thinly veiled.

A typical Jack Holt-Ralph Graves story, fashioned after the manner of so many of their offerings of recent date, yet one in which interest is created and maintained more through the performance of the featured players and the photographic effects than any especial novelty in the yarn.

Jim Kenyon, a soldier of fortune, employed as ace by the Nationalists, is a pal of more than one war of Correspondent Franklyn Bennett. Being human, both of them, they have their weak points, especially when the heart and hand of Julie March is the prize.

Not an entirely pleasant picture to watch, "War Correspondent" presents much more of the seamy side of life than have other pictures of its ilk, and against this starker background the stellar performances of Mr. Graves and Mr. Holt, not forgetting that of Lila Lee, stand in sharp contrast to the frothier things of the screen.

The entrancing picture which Maxine Doyle presents in an exquisite array of gowns as mistress of ceremonies, is alone sufficient to lift the somber pall of the feature's finale. Opening the vaudeville bill are the Bredwins, unusual comedy acrobats. Lewis Mack, assisted by Alice Frost, Frances Logan and Johnny Haines, offers "Is It a Law," a highly diverting comedy sketch in two scenes. Adding a note of charm and beauty are the Stanley Twins, whose graceful acrobatic dances are admirably counterpointed with the rhythmic tapping of the three Dodge brothers.

Headlining the stage show, and closing the bill, is Nick Lucas, the crooning troubador. Mr. Lucas is exceptionally generous, not only singing a wide variety of numbers, but giving as well a more extended display of guitar strumming, to the great delight of all.

An animated cartoon, "Bosko's Store," the Jesters, "Pep," "Vim" and "Vigar;" an E. M. Newman travelalk, "Berlin Today," and an issue of the Universal News, serve to send the cash customers home happy.

METROPOLITAN

"THE CRY OF THE WORLD." A Fox Film Corporation production, in collaboration with International Films, presenting world figures in voice and action. Reviewed Friday night by J. F. Brady.

An achievement in picture making has been accomplished in the presentation of "The Cry of the World." It is a timely picture; an historical masterpiece; an impressive educational portrayal of world events beginning with the World War and closing with the late arms conference. It is a kaleidoscope of news events—an unfolding of scenes which have long since happened and those which we should not forget; a massive newsreel of historical moments of outstanding importance at the present time.

"The Cry of the World" is a picture which must be seen to be appreciated. It is genuinely enjoyable, even though there are the horrifying scenes of war, of rioting, of gang work and the like.

First we have the scenes of the World War, with all its horror, the armistice, then the milling of thousands in the streets of Soviet Russia, in the streets of Berlin, and in Rome, listening to the pleadings of their leaders, Mussolini, Hitler and others. We pass to India—Ghandi in all his glory; the Indian riots, really impressive; brutality in its most gruesome form. It is the most thrilling part of the entire picture.

A number of important scenes of the arms conference, during which we hear Hugh Gibson, Ramsay MacDonald and other world figures, intermingled with the war scenes in China, the bombarding by the Japanese and the Indian uprisings.

Prohibition—pro and con—is given voice through such figures as Morris Sheppard, John D. Rockefeller, jr., Mrs. Sheppard and Mrs. Sabin, Representative LaGuardia and Nicholas Murray Butler.

Suffrage is expounded by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catts, and Secretary of State Stimson and Lord Cecil, of Britain, speak on the arms pact.

"The Cry of the World" presents so many world figures it would be hard to list them; it is a picture of many tongues, many countries, countless events.

Here is a screen story which should go down as an epic of its kind; one which may well be used for educational purposes; one which especially every school boy and girl should see and remember.

Supplementing this feature is another Paramount newsreel of the usual length giving events of this past week; a Betty Boop novelty, a Screen Souvenir and a Burns and Allen comedy.

RKO-KEITH'S

"THE AGE OF CONSENT." RKO-Radio picturization of the play, "Crossroads" by Martin Flavin, featuring Dorothy Wilson, Richard Cromwell, Arline Judge and Eric Linden, with John Halliday and Aileen Pringle. Directed by Gregory La Cava. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Except for its indecision in the matter of declaring itself unequivocally either for or against the observance of social conventions, this sprightly subject might well be catalogued as the "Flaming Youth" of 1932.

It will be recalled, however, that the inflammable Warner Fabian fiction frankly set forth the unrestricted license of the then rising generation without any attempt at moralizing. "The Age of Consent," if anything, goes a little farther than its predecessor in its revelation of the amatory adventures of American college youth, but slightly befogs the issue by injecting a mildly philosophical vein of mature sapience through the character of a college professor, still young in spirit, whose life has been a long succession of disappointments as a direct result of his eagerness always to be sure he was right before going ahead.

The major movement of the story, it may be speedily said, derives its principal motivation from a group of youngsters who go ahead first and do their thinking—if any—afterward. The results are sometimes calamitous. Especially in the case of Michael, the youngster with the genuinely serious turn of mind, who jeopardizes his future by a moment of weakness with a bottle of gin and the pretty little waitress at Toler's coffee shop. At that, he was only threatened with a shotgun marriage or the penitentiary, while his pal, Duke, died as a result of trying to comfort Mike's trusting sweetheart at 75 miles an hour in a new roadster on a dark pike. So you see.

The picture is frankly written, swiftly paced and glibly played by a cast of talented youngsters. If it purports to convey a preachment, it is so subordinate to the friskier elements of the story as to be submerged almost to the point of invisibility.

Dorothy Wilson, the RKO office typist suddenly turned accomplished ingenue, and that thoroughly dependable young actor, Richard Cromwell, are cast in the roles of prime importance and do them complete and captivating justice. Eric Linden and Arline Judge, two more acting aces of the younger screen set, are no less proficient and provocative as the comparatively innocent objects of a particularly adverse fate. John Halliday and Aileen Pringle, stalwarts of an older line, are splendidly authentic as the lovers who couldn't make up their minds, and so wasted their lives. Reginald Barlew does an explosive bit as the irate parent of a betrayed daughter and scores of flipcracking juveniles of both genders lend the campus scenes an ebullient dash of realism.

"Aviation Memories," celebrating the heroes of the art of flying; "His Royal Shyness," a Mack Sennett comedy starring Andy Clyde; a juvenile revue, "What Prize Gloria;" an Aesop Fable, "Bring 'em Back Half Shot," a keen burlesque of Frank Buck's jungle epic, and the RKO-Pathe News augment a bill that appreciably vitiates its effectiveness by devoting a full 10 per cent of its running time to an interminable succession of advertising trailers.

PALACE

"BLONDIE OF THE FOLLIES." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Frances Marion, starring Marion Davies, with Robert Montgomery, James Gleason and Billie Dove. Directed by Edmund Goulding. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

It's really incredible, the difference between the first and second halves of this picture; and it is certainly hard to believe that Eddie Goulding, or any other one person, directed this production as a unit, so suddenly does it flop into inanity and bad taste after maintaining an excellent pace and tone for half its length. The hodge-podgy, get-nowhere story has lots to do with this, of course, and Anita Loos' dialogue doesn't help any.

Blondie and Lottie are pals on the East Side. Lottie becomes Leline Cavanaugh in the Follie and grabs herself a penthouse apartment and all that goes with it, including one Larry Belmont. Pal Blondie, young and dumb, pays Lottie a visit, gets herself in the follies before you can say "Jack Robinson," and could grab Larry too if she would. Blondie, however, goes noble and leaves him for Leline, taking Yacht-owner Mercheson instead. From then on it's just on cat fight after another.

Marion Davies' performance follows the example of the picture, being amusing, attractive and enthusiastic as long as the story maintains any semblance of sanity and logic and humor, but when the picture slips, she goes maudlin, too. You can hardly blame her. She has a nice, but brief, Garbo imitation.

Robert Montgomery was handed the role of a very caddish and overbearing young wastrel. He plays him like a nice fellow and true. The very beauteous Billie Dove does a gem of posing and play acting, while James Gleason walks off with acting honors. And oh, yes, there's "Schnozzle" Durante, briefly and Barrymorishly, not quite so convulsing as usual.

Laurel and Hardy have their trials and tribulations with a flea circus and a simian monster. A cartoon, an unnecessary short-reel and the newsreel complete a bill which seemed a bit too long.

DEPRECIATION TOLD AT PHONE HEARING

Chicago Engineer's Testimony Differs From Figures of P. U. C. Agent.

The telephone rate hearing adjourned yesterday afternoon until 10 a. m. Monday after the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. had completed the presentation of one phase of its evidence on depreciation through William F. Sloan, Chicago consulting engineer.

Testifying as to the condition of the physical property of the company, exclusive of land and buildings, Mr. Sloan estimated depreciation at only 10 per cent as against testimony of Thomas R. Tate, Public Utilities Commission valuation engineer, that depreciation of the company's property approximated 25 per cent as of December 31, 1931.

At subsequent sessions the telephone company will translate the percentages offered yesterday into dollars and cents. The table showing condition of equipment ranged from 100 per cent for right of way to 60 per cent for general stable and garage equipment and tools. Central office equipment was rated at 90 per cent for manual and 98 per cent for the newly-installed dial system.

The testimony revealed a wide divergence of materials used by the telephone company and the commission in determining depreciation. Questions by William A. Roberts, special counsel, indicated that this difference later will be a point of issue.

Mr. Sloan declared that he made no allowance for obsolence or inadequacy of central office equipment of the manual type when it is expected to be replaced by the dial system.
